Prepare Brochure In Move to Get Airline

Chamber Will Distribute It By May 16th

Sedalia C of C Handling Project; Results Go to CAB

Compiling reports for a brochure to be presented to the Civil Aeronautics Board in connection with Sedalia's application for a certificate for airline service is a tremendous project. This work is being done by the Sedalia Chamber of Commerce, which will have the brochure ready for distribution by May 16.

Many business firms already are receiving calls from the Chamber on the survey regarding their activities along air service lines. Wanted is information regarding passenger, express, parcel post, air mail and air freight. This information will go into a huge economic exhibit for exchange with other cities interested in the seven-state area seeking air service or improvement in their own airline service.

The project is a combined, cooperative one between the City of Sedalia, the City Airport Board and the Chamber of Commerce. However, the facilities of the Chamber are being used for the compiling of the brochure and exhibit.

The Chamber already has ready for mailing a survey of industry. Hotels and motels are being called upon to provide certain information they have regarding traveling public. The business and professional people of Sedalia are being contacted by telephone.

In an effort to learn what portion of the public uses airlines for either business, vacation or emergency trips, a coupon is being published here for those who will use airline service to fill out. It is most important to obtain this additional information and the cooperation of the public is sought in order to follow through on the application of the City of Sedalia.

Sedalia's chances of obtaining a certificate for air service in the near future will be determined on a hearing before the CAB within the next few weeks.

Sedalia was fortunate in having its application accepted by the CAB at this time. Had the city failed to get its application on file in time, it was said that a delay

Miss Palmer Endorsed By GOP Women

Is Given Standing Ovation By 11th Congressional Dist.

Miss Hazel Palmer, Sedalia, Republican candidate for the United States Senate from the state of Missouri, was endorsed with a standing ovation by the Republican women of the 11th Congressional District at its spring meeting held Saturday at Salisbury.

After the motion was made by Mrs. L. C. Davis and seconded by Mrs. Ethel Reynolds, Miss Palmer addressed the meeting briefly and said in part:

"For the women, there is the great responsibility toward maintaining good government. I urge you women to go home and set up strong, active organizations in your local areas—not just organizations, but organizations that will help win a great Republican victory in the general election."

She closed by stating that she was not making a campaign speech today; that they would be hearing from her at length and in great detail at the proper time. She urged them, where there were vacancies still on their tickets, to get the tickets filled with the very best candidates available in their vicinity.

The meeting, presided over by Mrs. Fred G. Rose, president, opened with the Pledge of Allegiance to the Flag and the invocation was given by Mrs. L. C. Davis of Boonville.

Mrs. Ethel Reynolds of Sedalia was appointed parliamentarian.

Mrs. Mary Hert of California, secretary, read the minutes of the previous meeting and the treasurer's report was given by Mrs. Louis Amick of Glasgow.

Mrs. Rose then appointed the resolutions committee as follows: Mrs. Grace Hightshoe of Columbia, chairman; and Miss Helen Johnson of Boonville and Mrs. Elizabeth Dietch of Norborne as members.

Guests of the meeting were Mrs. Earl Frost of Kansas City, president of the State Federation of Republican Women; Miss Anne Richards, Brookfield, vice-chairman of the state committee; Mrs. James

Less State Aid For County Roads This Year

A delegation of Pettis County officials found during a recent visit to Jefferson City that state aid for county roads this year will be less than it has been in the past.

Two members of the county court, C. M. Purchase, judge of the western district, and E. L. Birdsong, judge of the eastern district, Royal Rager, county engineer, and Virgil Houchens, county treasurer, made the trip to discuss state aid for county with the State Highway Department.

For state aid for maintenance, Pettis County will get $6,482, for 1957 and 1958, or $24.84 per mile, which is about half the amount originally allotted. The county is to get $6,650 for construction, which according to the County Court, will cover only about six miles.

The delegation was given this information about two hours after it was revealed to the Highway Department. The appropriation had not been signed by the governor, but officials were sure it would be approved soon.

Results Favorable In Survey for Airline

Motels and hotels are returning their forms in the survey of information for the consideration of an airline for Sedalia to the Chamber of Commerce, and the results have been very favorable.

Other businesses are urged to also send in their information promptly because of the deadline being so close at hand.

The telephone survey is well underway and will be continued Monday for general retail business and professions.

The returns in so far, according to Jack Faber, executive manager of the Chamber of Commerce, have been most gratifying and the cooperation so far has been wonderful.

Pfeiffer Buildings Sold Friday

Largest Price for Real Estate Sale In City This Year

The Pfeiffer buildings on the Southeast corner of Fifth and Ohio were sold Friday by John Beatty of the Show-Me Real Estate Agency to Mrs. Mary Porter of Nettleton, Ark. The sale price was one of the largest downtown business transactions in real estate in Sedalia this year.

Mr. and Mrs. Pfeiffer own property at Highway 50 and West Main which they are steadily improving for floral and shrub business, and have erected several buildings, one if which replaced the large building destroyed by fire about a year and a half ago.

Hoover Survives Surgery

Pulls Through Like a Man 25 Years Younger

NEW YORK (AP)— Former President Herbert Hoover, nearing 84 and plagued by recurring gall bladder attacks, had the organ removed Saturday. His excellent general health brought him through the operation like a man 20 to 25 years younger.

"The doctors could not be more pleased with his condition," said one of his two sons, Herbert Hoover Jr. "They say everything is very wonderful."

The son made the report to newsmen at 1 p.m., about four hours after the conclusion of the hour-and-a-quarter surgery. Young Hoover added:

"There is no emergency in connection with this operation. My father had been bothered for some time, and he and his doctors decided this would be a good time to attend to it—a time when he wasn't suffering from it."

Hoover's other son, Allan, of Greenwich, Conn., also was at the hospital, the Harkness Pavilion of the Columbia-Presbyterian Medical Center, during the operation.

After learning of the success of the surgery, President Eisenhower sent Hoover a message wishing him a speedy recovery.

There was no advance announcement that surgery was contemplated. Even the fact Hoover was in a hospital was not made public for 24 hours. He entered Thursday afternoon. This information was disclosed late Friday along with the fact he was receiving medical tests.

Only about 10 days ago he had been fishing in Florida with three grandsons.

Aside from the gall bladder attacks, one of which hospitalized him in 1950, the nation's 31st President has enjoyed unusually good health.

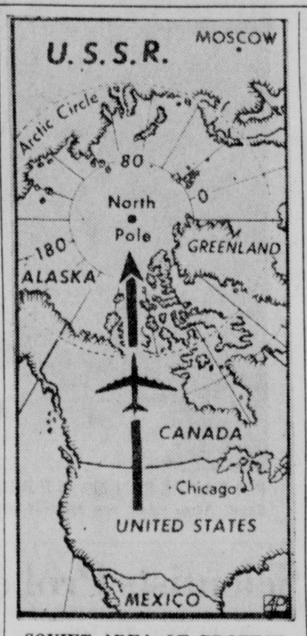

Marshall Voters OK $2.85 School Tax

MARSHALL, Mo. (AP) — Marshall school district voters Friday approved a school tax totaling $2.85 on each $100 of valuation.

The same proposal, before the voters, April 1, lost by 34 votes.

The total represented an increase of 29 cents over the levy for the past year.

All Yards Are In Contest This Year

Committee Will Watch for Beauty In Sedalia Yards

This year the selection of the "Yard of the Month" is going to be a surprise. Instead of people entering their yards in the contest, as has been done previously, a committee will be watching all yards for color and beauty, and out-of-town judges will make the final selection.

The city beautiful committee, of which Mrs. A. A. Ferguson is chairman, under the civic division of the Chamber of Commerce, P. A. Sillers, director, in cooperation with the Sedalia Garden Clubs is asking the help of all Sedalians.

Every yard in Sedalia is eligible to be entered, so when anyone sees a home that he feels is particularly attractive with bright flowers, shrubs and trees, any place within the city limits, he is asked to call the Chamber of Commerce and list it. The telephone number is TA 6-2222.

The main idea for a "Yard of the Month" contest is to create a beautiful city, and this is one project where everyone can participate. Everybody has his own ideas in design and favorite flowers and shrubs. Gardening is contagious and spring is a good time to start an epidemic, for everyone has a pride in his home. Along with "Paint-up, Fix-up, Clean-up Week," there should be included "Plant-up."

With everybody working in his own yards and watching everybody else's, this year's "Yard of the Month" contest should prove real fun, for nobody will know who will be the winner until the committee announces it. The object is to create as much interest in a city beautiful movement as possible.

Members of the civic committee of the Garden Clubs are: Mrs. Leo Eickhoff, chairman, Mrs. P. L. Strole, president of the Council of Garden Clubs; Mrs. Jewel B. Bollinger; Mrs. C. L. Carter, Mrs. D. O. Potter, Mrs. R. S. Haggard, Mrs. Linden Jones, Mrs. Ernest

Ready to Take Rebel Capital

Indonesia Troops Close In On Revolutionary Regime

JAKARTA, Indonesia (AP)—Government troops closed in Saturday on the rebel capital of Bukittinggi, readying the stroke to cut down the two-month-old revolutionary regime.

With the outnumbered rebels reported offering only slight resistance, a military spokesman stepped up the timetable of conquest, saying the mountain town may fall at any hour.

The 6,000-man Jakarta invasion force, after quickly overwhelming the rebel port of Padang in Thursday's landing on western Sumatra, had expected to take three days to march the 58 miles north to Bukittinggi.

But the future stretches bleak and uninviting for the harassed government of Premier Djuanda even though the rebel regime soon may be reduced to fighting a furtive guerrilla war in the jungles.

The situation is summed up by Charles Tambu, former diplomat and now editor of the influential Times of Indonesia.

"The rebellion in Sumatra, aside from costing the government an estimated 15 million rupiahs —$1,321,000 — daily for military operations, sees brother pitted against brother," Tambu wrote.

"There is galloping inflation, the economy of the country is in a chaotic condition, gold reserves are below 10 per cent, and the budgetary deficit this year will easily exceed last year's 12 hundred billion rupiahs."

The deep political issues which gave rise to the revolt of the young colonels on Sumatra in some respects resemble the States' rights question that led to the U.S. Civil War.

Rebel Premier Sjafruddin Prawiranegara, once a national hero, demanded Feb. 15 that the Djuanda government resign in favor of men who would carry out last September's decisions to give greater autonomy to the outer islands.

The autonomy question is a burning one which eclipses all others, including communism, in Jakarta.

Army Major Volunteers Space Ride

WASHINGTON — (Special) — Maj. David Simons, the Army's young aeromedical scientist who spent 30 hours in a sealed baloon last August, has volunteered to take the first ride into space in the nose cone of a Jupiter C missile.

The Army's plan to send a man into space in a rocket nose was described to the House space committee earlier this week by Dr. Wernher von Braun, the Army Missile expert. The Defense Department has not yet approved the proposal, however, although it was made three months ago.

To catapult Maj. Simons into space, the Army would use the same rocket combination which has launched the two American Explorers into orbit. Simons would be sealed into an air-conditioned capsule that would be lodged in the missile's nose. After the motor cut off, the missile itself would plunge to earth, but the capsule would continue soaring into space until it reached an estimated 150 miles. A system of parachute and drag brakes would be used to bring the capsule, containing Maj. Simons, back to earth.

The Defense Department is delaying approval of this spectacular experiment to await the Air Force's experiment in manned space flight with the X-15. This is a manned rocket plane which the Air Force claims will shoot 100 miles into space. By adding boosters, the Air Force believes the X-15 will carry a man over 400 miles into space.

The Army claims, however, that it can catapult Maj. Simons into space before the X-15 will be ready.

California Super Market Burglarized

Walter Haldiman, sheriff of Moniteau County, reported someone broke into the Goff Super Market Food Store in California Friday night, broke open the safe door and took approximately $800 in cash. The exact amount has not been determined.

The robbery was discovered at approximately 8 a.m. Saturday by an employee, Bob Kyle, when he reported for work. The sheriff's office was notified and an investigation began. George Hamilton, State Highway Patrolman, called in the Patrol criminal investigation laboratory, and the investigation is continuing.

County Road Given State Hiway Status

Temporary Route NN From Houstonia To Johnson County

Another former Pettis County road now designated as Temporary State Route NN has been given permanent state highway status by action of the State Highway Commission at its April meeting in Jefferson City.

Route NN leaves Missouri Route 127, about four miles west of Houstonia, and extends westerly, southerly and westerly for 4.2 miles to the Johnson county line, where it connects with Route N in that county.

This section of former county road was taken over by the Commission for maintenance as a temporary state route on Sept. 1, 1955, under terms of the 10-year state highway program.

Its elevation to permanent status in the state highway system has been made possible because local authorities made right of ways needed to develop it to supplementary road standards available without cost to the state, a program requirement.

Route NN is among a total of 27 former Pettis county roads totaling 106.7 miles in length which have been taken over by the state for maintenance under terms of the state's 10-year highway program. Thus far 13 of those roads totaling 52.4 miles in length have gained permanent state highway status after right of ways were made available on them.

Right of ways are yet to be made available on the other 14 roads still under maintenance, which total 54.3 miles. Those roads now are marked as Temporary Routes AA, EE, F, H, JJ, KK, MM, OO, TT, U and two sections each of HH and ZZ. When and if right of ways are forthcoming without cost to the state they also will gain permanent status. Failure to make right of ways available within a reasonable time could result in the road being returned to jurisdiction of the county.

As of April 1 the Commission, for the state as a whole, has taken over for maintenance a total of 8,574.4 miles of existing county roads under terms of the 10-year program. As of that date, 4,632.1 miles have been given permanent status in the state highway system. Thus far but 124.9 miles have had to be returned to county jurisdiction for failure to provide necessary right of ways.

Success In All Lines

One Day Remains In Sedalia's Buying Move Against Recession

Only one full day remains in Sedalia's biggest automobile sale in history. The nine new car dealers who opened the 11-day "You Auto Buy Now" campaign April 11 will keep their lots and showrooms open from 1 to 5 this afternoon, and will be open until 9 p.m. Monday.

The nine dealers opened the drive with a primary goal of selling cars now, hoping the campaign would spread to other retail sales, in line with President Eisenhower's request for people to "Buy Now" and create more jobs for more people. In Sedalia the campaign has met with success, with auto sales at a high level, and other retailers reporting substantial increases in all lines.

The automobile dealers, who represent 16 different makes of cars, pooled some $4,000 in an advertising campaign to initiate the drive. But the pooled effort ends in advertising the campaign. The different dealers are just as much in competition with each other as they ever were.

At the beginning of the campaign, the dealers earmarked approximately $2 million in merchandise for sale during the drive. This merchandise was marked down about $200,000 for the duration of the campaign.

As of Saturday noon, a tabulation showed the dealers had delivered 362 vehicles at a retail sales value of $401,602. Mike O'Connor, chairman of the steering committee, said the dealers expected to attain a set goal of $½-million by Monday evening. He added that this is more sales than was originally hoped for. He said the campaign would have been considered a success if sales had only been around $300,000.

O'Connor also said there had been an unexpected turn-in of late model used cars and trucks as of these vehicles have a low mile-down payments on new cars. Many of these vehicles have a low mileage, and dealers are offering these cars at special discount.

The selection of used trucks — pickups and larger units — is particularly good. Dealers have reported an increase in the sale of trucks to Central Missouri farmers, and expect a further increase over the weekend.

A report from the National Automobile Dealers Association gave the reasoning behind the various anti-recession "Buy Now" campaigns. The report revealed that the national savings amounted to $300-Billion, and that if every home loan and consumer debt in the nation was paid off, there would still be $167-Billion remaining in savings accounts. The report also showed that the farmer is the most solvent group in the nation, and that the average farmer owed only $11 out of every $100 assessed valuation.

The car dealers will have their final breakfast meeting at the Coffee Pot Cafe Monday morning. The guest speaker will be James Denny, special agent for the Metropolitan Life Insurance Co.

Scientists Probe First Living Things

By RENNIE TAYLOR
AP Science Reporter

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — From simple chemicals which presumably existed on the dead earth millions of years ago scientists have produced substances they believe to be identical with those which formed the first living things.

These materials include an assortment of amino acids, the constituents of protein, and finally combinations of these acids into protein-like materials. Protein is the basic substance of living matter.

The steps they followed in the test tube experiments were something like those taken by other scientists in attempting to synthesize protein, one of the great goals of biological science.

However, their object was not to make protein for its own sake but to demonstrate how the first building blocks of life could have been formed.

These scientists presented the results of their work in paper before the American Chemical Society yesterday.

Dr. Stanley L. Miller of Columbia University showed how he produced amino acids from methane, a common natural gas, water, hydrogen and ammonia, with the aid of an electrical discharge.

Miller followed the conclusions of other scientists that the young, lifeless earth had these substances in its air and ocean water, and that their coming together could have been the result of lightning flashes during storms.

He demonstrated also his idea of how more complicated materials such as the basic materials for self-reproduction of the first primitive cells may have been produced under similar conditions.

A slightly different procedure was postulated by Dr. Philip Abelson of the Carnegie Institution of Washington. He expressed belief that the original raw chemicals, hydrogen, water and carbon dioxide, came from the gas of erupting volcanoes, and that mild volcanic heat put them together in combinations similar to those of Dr. Miller.

The protein-like substances made from these primitive building blocks were produced by Dr. Sidney W. Fox of Florida State University through the use of heat.

Whether this primitive substance has biological activity — that is, the ability to accumulate other simple substances and use them to build itself into something alive or nearly alive—Dr. Fox declined to say.

4-H Round-Up with

OWEN FOX

Pettis County Assoc. Agent

Did You Know?

Did you know that Roy Rogers, the movie star, was a former 4-H Club member in Ohio and won a trip to the State 4-H Congress? He describes the experience as the turning point in his life.

Dates Ahead

April 23, Training meeting for 4-H Native Crafts Leaders, at the County Extension office, 1:30 p.m. to 4 p. m.

April 26, Buying and Wearing Clothes 4-H Project meeting 9 a. m. to 11 a. m.

4-H Dairy Breed Awards

According to John Burkeholder, Stae 4-H Club Agent, promoting dairy project work is not new to the dairy breed associations in Missouri. They have been helping 4-H Club members, their parents, and leaders in their project work for years. The four associations that are assisting with the awards program in 4-H are the Missouri Holstein-Friesian Association, Missouri Guernsey Breeders' Association, Missouri Jersey Cattle Club and the Missouri Brown Swiss Association.

The dairy breed associations give these awards to 4-H members to develop leadership and character, and to help 4-H'ers gain an understanding of dairy production practices.

The Missouri Holstein-Friesian Association is offering their Clark-Davis award. A registered Holstein heifer goes to a prospective Holstein breeder. The Clark-Davis award is named for two outstanding former members and benefactors of the Association, Glen Davis and Ernest Clark.

Each year there is a trip to Waterloo, Iowa, to the National Dairy Congress. This trip goes to the outstanding 4-H Holstein member in Missouri.

The Missouri Guernsey Breeders' Association selects a district 4-H winner in each of their ten Guernsey districts in the state. From these ten outstanding members one state winner is selected. The state winner will receive a silvery Guernsey jug. District winners receive pen and pencil sets.

The Missouri Jersey Cattle Club is offering one registered Jersey heifer to a 4-H Jersey dairy project member. The heifer is awarded according to the 4-H'ers future plans in the dairy project work. The Jersey Cattle Club also offers a trip to the National Jersey Show at Chicago in October for a 4-H Jersey project member.

The Missouri Brown Swiss Association will select outstanding Brown Swiss 4-H project members from each of their Canton districts in the state. The winners will receive Swiss bells. From these Canton winners there'll be a state winner selected and the state winner will receive a model Brown Swiss cow.

These are the major dairy breed association awards offered to 4-H members in Missouri for the 1958 dairy project year. It's interesting to note that in Missouri 4-H there are 2650 dairy projects including 980 with dairy calf projects, 791 with the dairy heifer project, 635 with the dairy cow project and 244 with the dairy herd project. There's been a large increas in the dairy cow project in the last few years.

Of course there are other incentives for 4-H dairy members, including a trip to the National 4-H Congress in Chicago for the outstanding dairy boy or girl in the state. For six outstanding boys and girls in the state there's a trip to the National Dairy Conference and Tour in Chicago in October.

Remote Look At World Is at Hand

WASHINGTON (AP)—U. S. scientists are on the threshhold of being able to take a remote control look at any spot on the globe, the Navy's research chief says. He agrees it soon may be possible to use the moon as a reconnaissance satellite.

Rear Adm. John T. Hayward acknowledged this Friday at a hearing of the Special House Space Committee.

He refused details other than to say both possibilities result from breakthroughs in electronics development achieved in the last six months at Naval Research Laboratories. If he said anything more, "they'll shoot me," Hayworth told newsmen.

The glimpses into space developments came when Hayward replied "Yes, sir," to these questions from Rep. Fulton (R-Pa):

"On current research developments do we in the United States have it within our power soon to monitor the whole world, including countries behind the Iron Curtain . . . ?

"Don't we in the United States have the capability through electronic means soon to use the moon as a reconnaissance satellite, so we don't have to wait for production of satellites in orbit, or a moon shot or a landing on the moon?"

Hayward did say, however, the breakthroughs would permit monitoring of the world by either sight or sound. He didn't elaborate.

Another witness before the committee was Rear Adm. Hyman G. Rickover, the Navy's nuclear power boss, who counseled against big crash programs for space exploration.

Instead, Rickover advised Congress to keep its feet on the ground in appropriating money for space projects. The outspoken admiral also said the entire defense establishment is too big and costly.

Railroad Must Reinstate Man, Pay Back Wages

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—The State Belt Railroad, which operates along the San Francisco water front, has been ordered to reinstate and pay about $60,000 in back wages to a discharged employe.

The award, announced yesterday, was made April 11 by the National Railway Adjustment Board to James W. Brewster.

B. W. Fern, vice president of the Switchmen's Union of the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen called the award "the largest individual reinstatement ever handed down . . . by any tribunal set up for the purpose of deciding disputes of this character."

Brewster, 56, had battled the state-operated Port of San Francisco, which runs the railroad, for 11 years in the case. He has driven a cab for a living during the time.

Brewster was hired in 1943 as a temporary wartime employe. He was discharged June 30, 1947, for failing to take a permanent civil service examination. The union contended its contract does not allow an employe to remain on temporary status after six months, which made him a permanent employe without having to take an examination.

Body of Accident Victim Found on Roof

PEMBERTON, N.J. (AP) — The body of an accident victim was found on the roof of a home today some eight hours after a car had crashed into a tree in the yard.

The body was identified as that of Herbert Haines, 21. His car was headed east on Magnolia Road last night when it left the road, rolled over several times, and landed tail up against a tree.

Police said his body was tossed to the top of the 18-foot-high roof of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Bush.

Another victim of the accident, Leroy Egenlauf, 26, was found unconscious beside the car at the time of the wreck. Police were unable to question him about the mishap and did not learn that Haines had been in the car.

Egenlauf was taken to Burlington county Hospital in serious condition. Both men are from Chatsworth.

Donald Chambers, 11, a next neighbor to the Bush family, went out this morning to fly a kite and saw the body.

Special Legislative Group Urges Simpler County Government

INDEPENDENCE, Mo. (AP) — Simplify the government in fourth class counties and lessen their governmental cost, a special legislative subcommittee was told today.

Robert Knuth, research director for the Missouri Public Expenditure Survey, suggested to the local government subcommittee that fourth class counties spend a third more of their tax dollars for salaries and office expense than do third class counties.

He said there is no reason the smaller and poorer counties should continue the heavy expense of many elective officials. He offered these three substitute forms of government as less costly:

County clerk form — combine the offices of county clerk, assessor, collector and treasurer in the office of an elective county clerk who would employ necessary help at compensations approved by the county court.

Commission form—eliminate all elective offices except county judges who would administer the various offices.

Consolidated offices form—combine present county offices into the office of a county clerk, appointed by the county court.

Consumer Demand For Meat Is Easing

WASHINGTON (AP) — Agriculture Department surveys indicated today that consumer demand for meats has been easing somewhat during the past 10 days.

This situation was said to reflect declining employment and the arrival of warmer weather. Meat buying normally declines during the spring and summer seasons.

HST Quoted As Admitting Memory Bad

CHICAGO (AP) — The Chicago American says former President Truman admits he was wrong in telling the House Banking Committee this week that an exclusive interview he gave in 1950 "did not happen."

Truman's admission came to light Friday in an interview by an American reporter who telephoned the former President at his Independence, Mo., home.

The American quoted Truman as saying he had "written to Rep. Spence (D-Ky), chairman of the committee, . . . and asked the committee to set the record straight" on the erroneous testimony. Truman was further quoted:

"I had forgotten about that interview. I regret very much what I said before the committee. But you know when you appear before committees, and they throw questions at you, you can't always think as fast, and your memory doesn't always work so good."

In Monday's hearing in Washington, Rep. Talle (R-Iowa) made reference to an exclusive interview Truman gave a New York Times reporter in 1950 regarding unemployment. The Times article related that the then Chief Executive said "it is a good thing that job seeking should go on at all times" because it is "healthy for the economic body."

Truman told Talle: "That exclusive interview did not happen. That came out of the air."

Next day Arthur Krock of the Times appeared with a column giving details of the time, place and circumstances of his interview with Truman. He said further Truman had read and approved his story before it was published Feb. 15, 1950.

In response to a question about the matter, the American quoted Truman as saying:

"As you can see by what happened, my memory apparently does not work fast. I regret this very much."

The American reported Truman said he had written Krock a letter of apology as well as Spence.

Truman said Dean Acheson, his secretary of state, had refreshed his memory when he talked to Acheson after the former secretary made a speech in Kansas City on Tuesday, the American reported. Truman was quoted as follows:

"He said he (Acheson) remembered I had given the interview to Krock. We recalled that the main substance of the interview was over international relations and our dealings with Russia."

When asked how "everything is" with him, the American said, Truman replied:

"I'm feeling all right, but I guess my memory is not so good any more. And I can't get around as fast as I used to."

Asks Federal Money For Pollution Study

WASHINGTON (AP) — Federal money should be supplied to help study sewage pollution of the Missouri River, Sen. Symington (D-Mo) said in a letter to Sen. Ellender (D-La).

Symington asked Ellender's subcommittee on public works to vote money for the study.

Washington University of St. Louis has been asked to undertake a research program on the subject, he said, and an estimated $72,720 is needed for the three-year investigation.

WORLD CITIZEN — Dag Hammarskjold of Sweden starts his day with a smile as he embarks on his sixth year as Secretary-General of the United Nations.

French Police Hunt For Townsend Letters

PARIS (AP)—French Police were hunting today for private correspondence and personal effects stolen from the parked car of Group Capt. Peter Townsend.

Newspapers here speculated that some of the letters may have been from Britain's Princess Margaret, but police said they had received no such information from Townsend. The handsome, 43-year-old war hero was long a suitor of Margaret's but she put duty before love and decided she would not marry a divorced man. They still are friends.

Authorities said Townsend gave them a list of stolen property including unidentified correspondence, about $1,000 in francs, a book inscribed by Dr. Albert Schweitzer, a camera and clothing.

Succeeds in Suicide With Head on Tracks

MARION, Ill. (AP)—Mrs. Marian Boatwright succeeded Friday in her second effort to take her own life by placing her head on tracks in front of an approaching train.

A coroner's jury returned a suicide verdict in the death of the 47-year-old woman, a former mental patient and the mother of five children.

The woman was run over at a crossing here by the Chicago & Eastern Illinois Meadowlark. Coroner Adolph Fluck said Mrs. Boatwright attempted suicide in a similar manner April 1 but the engineer of a freight train saw her and managed to stop in time.

HOW'S THAT AGAIN? — By the time a motorist finished reading the five signs on this post in Pittsburgh, Pa., he'd probably have gotten a ticket. Now, see if you can figure out those signs. It's what is known as piling confusion on confusion. There is one unqualified statement visible — the speed limit is 25 miles per hour.

St. Louis Mayor Lauds Toronto City System

TORONTO (AP) — Mayor Raymond Tucker of St. Louis, Mo., said last night no one tackling the problems of a metropolitan municipal government can ignore the methods applied by Toronto.

He commented at a news conference on the Federation of Toronto with its 12 adjacent municipalities to administer essential services.

"You had a situation, you analyzed it and produced a plan," he said. "That's what appeals to me—you acted and have built a foundation for further improvement."

Suggests Books Dealing In American National Sports

"He (the President) threw the first ball" — this short statement indicates that America's National Game is on its way again. Incidentally spring tried finally to keep pace with the opening of the baseball season. And keeping pace with the wide interest in the sport, Boonslick Regional Library suggests a few of its many books dealing with this best-liked game in the United States.

"The Fireside Book of Baseball" is crowded with pictorial material — there are over a hundred photographs and humorous cartoons and drawings and paintings—this is a volume that every fan will treasure. It's the next best thing to hearing the umpire cry "Play Ball!" "Baseball Complete" has packed scores of breath taking, humorous, dramatic inside stories of all the great baseball players, past and present. The author takes you into the dugout and the clubhouse where history is made, and onto the diamond itself where action is born every minute. "How to Hit" tells in clear language, step by step, how to hit. Each element of hitting is explained and illustrated by a photograph or a diagram. "My Kind of Baseball" is an autobiography by Roger Hornsby. On every page of this frank and personal story he wades into the truth with a firm stride and full cut. The result is a unique self-portrait of the greatest right-handed batter of all time. "Winning Baseball" written by a former Baseball Coach gives a graphic presentation of just about every technical aspect of baseball. There are countless photographs of famous baseball stars which reveal a particular how-to phase in the proper techniques of the game. The photographic display is designed to portray sequence of action which enables the reader to examine all stages of fielding, throwing, batting and base running. Beside baseball, material is available on other summer hobbies and outdoor activities. Remember to ask for books about your special interest.

Byrd Thinks Big Deficit Lies Ahead

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Byrd (D-Va) said Saturday the government appears headed toward an eight billion dollar deficit next year even without a general tax cut.

Byrd, who heads the Senate Finance Committee, said in an interview he agrees with Secretary of the Treasury Anderson that red ink spending will top three billion dollars in the present fiscal year, which ends June 30.

Anderson told the American Society of Newspaper Editors Friday that even if federal revenues remain at a high level—which he said is unlikely—there will be a deficit approaching four billion dollars in the year beginning July 1.

In January, President Eisenhower estimated there would be a 400 million dollar deficit this fiscal year and a 500 million dollar surplus next year. But that was before the deepened recession changed the picture.

Byrd said he looks for a sharper drop in revenues than Anderson estimated.

"I think the deficit is likely to run eight billion dollars or even more," Byrd said. "The Treasury estimated a two billion dollar increase in revenues for fiscal 1959, but the indications are now that there will be a two billion dollar drop instead of an increase.

"When the effects of the acceleration in spending begin to be felt, the deficit is going to mount up fast. I think the increase in spending will run to at least four billion dollars, which, with the drop in revenue will make the total deficit at least eight billion dollars."

Anderson said the administration is giving daily consideration to whether a tax cut would be advisable. He added that he is opposed to any abrupt reduction, saying modification of taxes must not be based "on the theory that a single dramatic action will automatically be all that is required to assure business recovery."

Byrd said he believes resistance to tax reductions—except for possible downward revision of some excise levies—is growing in Congress.

He said he has found that some legislators he described as liberal Democrats are joining conservative Democrats and Republicans in favoring public works expenditures over tax cuts as antirecession measurse.

Khrushchev Accuses Japanese Government Of Damaging Fishing

TOKYO (AP)—Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev has accused the Japanese government of damaging Japan's fishing industry by obstructing conclusion of a peace treaty with the Soviet Union.

Khrushchev's statement was in a letter dated April 14 and delivered today to Mosaburo Suuki, chairman of the Socialist party, main opposition to the ruling Liberal-Democrats.

Khrushchev replied to a letter from Suuki urging the Soviet Union to agree to a new fishing pact even though a peace treaty never has been signed with the Soviet Union since the end of World War II.

The fishing talks between the two powers now are reaching the final stage in Moscow. The pact is expected to all but close the Soviet Sea of Okhotsk north of Japan to Japanese fishermen.

These were important fishing waters for Japan in the days when it controlled southern Sakhalin Island and the Kuril Islands along the eastern boundaries of the sea.

Two Factions Seek Offices In the DAR

WASHINGTON (AP) — Two rival factions are in the running for election next year as officers of the Daughters of the American Revolution.

Seeking the post of president general are two widows and long-time DAR members—Mrs. Ashmead White of Bangor, Me., and Mrs. Ralph W. Newland of St. Joseph, Mich.

Their announcements as candidates for the coveted top post came right after Friday's closing business session of the DAR's 67th continental congress.

The president general serves for three years. Mrs. Frederic A. Groves of Cape Girardeau, Mo., will end her term next year.

Mrs. White, an investment banker and head of the committee that arranged the program for the organization's 67th congress, is the first Maine DAR to run for president general. She said she started coming to DAR congresses in the 1930s as a page.

Mrs. Newland, who wears a 25-year membership pin, is now curator general of the DAR and has held numerous other state and national offices in the 186,000-member patriotic organization.

Both candidates named a slate of 11 others to run with them for major DAR offices.

The DAR delegates finished their week-long activities with a banquet Friday night.

In adopting some 30 resolutions, the 67th Congress set DAR national policy for the coming year. It went on record in favor of repealing the federal income tax law and urged U. S. withdrawal from the United Nations.

The 2,750 delegates drew attention to the dangers of Communist subversion, and called for withdrawal of recognition from Russia and its satellites.

The DAR delegates suggested a quick end to foreign aid and a curb on the appellate jurisdiction of the supreme court.

They opposed mixed marriages among the races and asked local and national officials to look into what were termed "the inherent dangers" in "fluoridation of public water supplies.

The DARs sought to protect two historic shrines—the capitol and Lincoln Memorial. They asked that nothing be done to alter the capitol, opposing proposals for extension of the building's east front.

And they urged that no bridge or tunnel be built at the Potomac River that would mar the Lincoln Memorial grounds.

During the week, the DAR waged a fund drive for a new little girls' cottage at the mountain school they operate in Tamassee, S.C. Unofficial reports indicated they had swelled the fund to $43,000.

Courageous Teenager Succumbs to Cancer

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) — A courageous teen-aged girl died yesterday, 18 months after she married her sweetheart in her hospital room.

It was October 16 when young Cherrie Thompson, then 16, married La Roy Jay, a young soldier she had known since childhood.

After the ceremony, doctors told Cherrie that she must lose her right leg in an attempt to halt cancer. Thirty six hours after her wedding, Cherrie, still smiling, underwent surgery.

Jay was released from the armed services and the young couple set up housekeeping here.

Two weeks ago, a baby was born, but died eight hours later. Yesterday Cherrie Thompson Jay died of cancer.

Victim of Dystrophy Gets Wish in Hurry

SOMERSET, Mass. (AP) — Albert Renault made three wishes for his 10th birthday, May 10—which doctors say may be his last—and got one of them within a matter of hours.

A victim of muscular dystrophy, which is now creeping into his chest, Albert asked: That he be able to walk, that he have friends at his birthday party and that he would get a little dog.

His plea was heard on the radio last night by Mrs. Mary Grace of New Bedford who had two Chihuahua puppies. Albert's family was contacted and picked up one of them.

So he had the little dog today, and most likely he will have many friends at his birthday party next month. But the other wish, walking, can't come true doctors say.

WAFB Officer Speaks To Sedalia Rotarians

Lt. Col. Arthur L. Cushing, director of intelligence for the 340th Bomb Wing at Whiteman Air Force Base, will address the Sedalia Rotary Club at a noon luncheon April 21. Henry W. Harris, program chairman for April, invited the WAFB officer to speak.

The subject will be NATO—how it is organized and how it works.

Col. Cushing, a command pilot and a veteran of World War II, came to Whiteman from France where he served as special advisor to the NATO chief of staff. He is an aeronautical engineer graduate of New York University. He is originally from Boston, and now lives on the base with his wife, Marian, and their son, Anthony.

Boston Gives Salute To Freedom Fighters Of 183 Years Ago

BOSTON (AP)—Greater Boston today saluted the freedom fighters of 1775 with a host of celebrations honoring Patriots Day.

Last night flickering lanterns from the steeple of Old North Church and powerful beams from searchlights of Navy ships in Boston commemorated the rides of Paul Revere, William Dawes, and Dr. Samuel Prescott, who warned of the approach of the British.

Eight communities which were alerted 183 years ago by the shouts of the hard riding Revere, Dawes and Prescott mark the occasion with ceremonies, parades and athletic and social events.

Paul Revere also was honored by the Post Office Department as a 25-cent stamp bearing his picture went on sale. The Post Office said yesterday more than 100,000 persons have requested the green, standard-size stamp. It is a copy of the Gilbert Stuart painting done when Revere was about 80.

Two Brothers Drown In Illinois Farm Pond

MURPHYSBORO, Ill. (AP)—Two brothers drowned in a farm pond and a third man swam to safety late Friday after the small rowboat from which they had been fishing overturned and sank.

The victims were Paul Ellett, 37, of Rt. 1, Gorham, a good swimmer who apparently was handicapped by his heavy combat boots, and John Ellett, 28, of Grand Tower, who was unable to swim.

The pond, which was formed when a Mississippi river levee broke during a 1943 flood, is on the Herman Hollman farm about 14 miles east of here.

Rusty Qualls of Grand Tower said the boat was upset when Paul Ellett suddenly stood up. Qualls swam to shore with difficulty after kicking off his rubber hip boots.

One More Weird Problem

Frozen North's Rocket Teams Must Deal With Polar Bears

FT. CHURCHILL, Man. (AP)—Firing space rockets from the frozen North involves some unique problems.

Polar bears, for example.

Polar bears move south from the arctic in the summer to give birth, return north with their brood in the fall. On the way, they get hungry. They got hungry last fall passing by Ft. Churchill, a Canadian-American army base which is also a key station in the IGY rocket program.

One family of white woolies wandered onto the base. Gun shots were fired into the air to scare them off, but they wouldn't scare. Finally, a helicopter went up, and, by the noises of its motors, herded them back onto the frozen tundra along Hudson Bay.

It was the first recorded moment in history that a helicopter played shepherd to a bunch of bears.

Another time, a mama bear and two cubs moved right into the mess hall at the launching site.

Like hungry relatives, these bears refused to take a hint. They finally had to be shot by GIs standing on the outside, firing M1 rifles through the windows.

And then there is the problem of radio atmospheric conditions which can be freakish up here. Once during a tense countdown in the blockhouse, the count came down to two minutes from firing. Highly complex electronic gadgets were poised to pick up esoteric signals from the edge of the atmosphere.

Suddenly the next voice they heard was a taxi dispatcher in Fayetteville, N.C.: "Charlie, you got a call at 211 Elm."

"But the worst thing for your nervous system," said Capt. John Siewert, operations officer from Kankakee, Ill., "is when you count down to zero, give the order to fire, and nothing happens. It throws you off balance, emotionally and physically.

"It's as though you're all set to march. You're accustomed to the orders being yelled out in a certain rhythm. And then the drill sergeant yells, 'Forward. . . .' but he delays on the word 'march,' and you feel yourself falling forward."

Despite assorted difficulties, the Army-Navy-civilian team of Americans firing rockets up here have had a high rate of success. In almost 50 firings, they are batting better than .800. The rest were total or partial failures. The rocket didn't get off, or failed in flight, or the instruments didn't work properly.

To gather data on the Aurora or Northern Lights, to study density, temperature and pressure of the upper atmosphere, the rocketeers here fire Aerobees, Aerobee-his and Nike-Cajuns, which range in altitude from 60 to 160 miles.

Firing into an Aurora is tricky. The Aurora needs to be directly overhead and the wind velocity and direction must be precisely right. There have been nights when a whole team of 70 military and civilian experts stood on station from 8 p.m. to 5 a.m. waiting in vain for the right conditions.

The Churchill rockets are fired from enclosed launching sites, the Aerobees from a 100-foot structure that looks like an inverted funnel, the Cajuns from a metal building whose peaked roof opens. The low temperatures reached up here — 30 and 40 below are not unusual — require nursing the rockets in warmth until the last moment.

I watched a Nike-Cajun firing one night.

"In five minutes, we will pick up time at X minus 60 minutes. Stand by . . . Mark, X minus 60 minutes." Thus the announced countdown begins an hour before firing.

The "talker," the man announcing the countdown, is an enlisted man with a microphone in the blockhouse, his eyes glued to a clock whose time was set by radio from the Bureau of Standards in Washington, 1,700 miles away.

The count comes down. "Mark, X minus 20 minutes." . . . "Mark, X minus 10 minutes.' . . .

In the blockhouse, C.W.O. Everett Bacon of Washington, D.C. the "gunner" or man who does the actual firing, leans over a complicated board full of lights, buttons and switches. Along the bottom row is a string of lights, all green. If any should turn red, he can hold the firing down to the last fraction of a second.

". . . Mark, X minus 10 seconds" . . . Bacon takes a key out of his pocket and inserts it in the board, turning it to "arm" position. This means the 25-foot rocket is now armed; all circuits ready for firing.

"Nine seconds . . . eight . . . seven . . . six . . . " You hear the count coming down and even if you're just a bystander, you have a sense of being emotionally and physically involved. You feel taut, like a diver waiting to go offt he high board, or a golfer putting for $40,000 from eight feet out.

"Five . . . four . . . three . . . two . . . one . . . zero. Fire!" Bacon throws the switch. Outside, on a flat, barren landscape that looks like the moon, all hell breaks loose.

A long vertical blast of red-orange flame. A whoosh. Then a roar. By the time you hear the roar, the rocket is well above the point the sound is coming from. Up . . . up . . . up. In just a few seconds, the Nike booster burns out and the Cajun ignites . . . up . . . up. Like a rising lightbulb among the stars. Then suddenly, nothing but the stars.

In the blockhouse, scientists study their instruments. Alert, tense faces turn quizzical, then concerned, then sad, then weak with disappointment. The instruments in the tiny sphere ejected from the nose cone have failed to transmit.

Four months of work preparing the experiment, $30,000 to $40,000 of instruments and materials wasted.

The mood of the blockhouse is funereal. Tomorrow they will try to figure out what went wrong. Tonight, they are loath to talk. Physicists, astronomers, meteorologists, officers and enlisted men file silently out of the blockhouse, leaving behind their intricate boards and lights and buttons, their complex instruments for communicating with the edge of space.

One of the enlisted men is so sad he even forgets his comic book. It is titled "Marines at War" and its cover shows a horde of bloodthirsty Japanese attacking a handful of Marines in what now seems like another century before time began.

The next day we watch another Nike-Cajun go up. This time everything works fine. The rocket rises 105 miles and the instruments in the sphere transmits valuable information to the blockhouse. This time all hands are smiling. This time the enlisted man doesn't forget his comic book.

Costly Bylaw

BRAINTREE, Mass. (AP)—Pringing the 1957 town report cost this town nearly $500 extra — all because a bylaw prevented the job from going to the low bidder. Ironically, he got the job anyway.

Before being elected selectman, Chester W. Nelson, operator of the Observer Press, invariably got the printing contract. This year his firm's bid was low at $9.50 a page.

However, a town bylaw prohibits town officials from letting contracts to firms in which they have a financial interest. So the selectmen awarded the contract to the only other bidder, The Duxbury Clipper, at $11.50 a page.

Whereupon, the Duxbury company sub-contracted the job to Observer Press and the town paid the higher figure.

Young Warsaw Girl Severely Hurt In Accident

Andrea Kay Kammerick, 6½-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Andy Kammerick, Warsaw, received severe head injuries and a possible fracture of the skull in a pedestrian-car accident that occurred at 4 p.m. Friday on Highway 65 two miles north of Warsaw.

According to the Highway Patrol, the girl started to cross the highway and walked into the right rear door of a 1950 Ford sedan, driven south by Hoyt Allen Holley, 19, of Warsaw.

The Patrol reported that Holley stated the girl was looking at another car coming from the south, and that she ran into his car.

The girl was rushed by ambulance to the Bothwell Hospital, but was then transferred to the Research Hospital in Kansas City, where she is undergoing treatment.

Mr. and Mrs. Kammerick said that their daughter frequently crossed the highway from their place of business to see her pony across the road. They said that she always looked both ways before crossing.

The Research Hospital reported that the girl was severely injured in the accident, and that X-rays were being taken to reveal any other possible injuries.

The Missouri Highway Patrol is carrying on further investigations.

One of the most important school events of the year was held this Saturday in the Sacred Heart cafeteria—the Junior-Senior Prom. Using the beautiful theme of "April Showers," the junior class endeavored to make this year's prom a highly successful one.

A banquet, prepared by the mothers of the junior class members, was served at 6:30 p.m. in the cafeteria. Following the banquet, a dance was held to the music of the Harry Trotman orchestra.

The Glee Club held its scheduled dress rehearsal for the Spring Concert Friday afternoon in the gymnasium. The concert will be held this evening at 8:15 in the local auditorium. The Glee Club is under the direction of Sister M. Everildis.

The 1958 softball season is now under way at Sacred Heart, with spring training getting into full swing. The first practice was held Wednesday by the boys and Thursday by the girls, giving Father Pelletier a chance to survey his charges. Both teams showed a marked improvement over last year, and are anxiously awaiting the start of the season.

A bake sale, sponsored by the Mother's Club, April 25, will be held in the cafeteria from 11:30 a.m. to 1 p.m. A variety of cookies, cupcakes, brownies, and candy will be on sale.

Vanguard Director Says Satellite Life Expectancy 200 Years

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Navy's Vanguard satellite will orbit the earth for at least 200 years, Dr. John P. Hagen said today.

Hagen, director of the Vanguard satellite program, said long observation will be necessary to determine a more accurate prediction of the life of the small sphere sent aloft on March 17.

In a speech prepared for the American Society of Newspaper Editors, Hagen said the Navy satellite is slowing down at an almost unmeasurable rate because of the dimensions of its orbit, 405.1 miles away at its nearest point to the earth and 2,463 miles out at its greatest distance.

Hagen said even at this distance from the earth, there is a small amount of drag on satellites moving at a speed of five miles a second.

In time, this drag will cause the Vanguard to fall back toward earth, Hagen said, "but we now know that Vanguard will be with us for at least 200 years."

Run Season Record to 7-1

S-C Tigers Defeat Tipton 5 to 1 Behind Dave Wilhite's Two-Hitter

The Smith-Cotton Tigers tuned up for the Sub-District Baseball Tournament which starts here Tuesday by topping the Tipton Cardinals, 5-1, at Liberty Park Friday afternoon.

With Dave Wilhite allowing only two hits, the Tigers chalked up their seventh win of the season. Their lone setback came at the hands of Rockhurst of Kansas City, 5-2, in the second game of the season. Wilhite's only trouble came in the fifh inning when the Cards picked up one run on four walks. He fanned seven and issued seven bases on balls.

Smith-Cotton scored its first run in the second when Bobby Garrison singled with one out and went to second on a wild pitch. He scored when Don Callis followed with another single.

Tom Herrick, the Tigers' lead-off man in the third, got the attack under way again with a two-base blast to right center and Wilhite aided his own cause with an RBI single. Wilhite later scored as a result of errors by Tipton's center fielder and pitcher.

Garrison scored again in the fourth after doubling to center. Callis again got the RBI with a single to right. Smith-Cotton's last run came in the sixth when Marshall Bryan doubled to left center, stole third and dented home after a wild pitch.

Garrison and Callis lead S-C's seven-hit attack with two safeties each. Gist and Kline collected Tipton's only base knocks.

Mike Hannigan flipped a neat one-hitter in the B team game which Smith-Cotton won, 8-1. The smooth working southpaw whiffed ten and walked five in the five-inning contest.

Wilhite, Gibbs and Walker led the B team's 10-hit attack with two each. In the Bengals' big six run first, Gibbs drove in two counters with a double and Wodleigh picked up two RBIs with a line triple to right center.

Eighth Graders Win

S-C Freshmen Drop Meet To Clinton

Smith-Cotton's eighth grade track team rolled over Clinton, 65-35, but the freshman thinclads, sorely missing injured Charles Case, dropped a 74½-34½ decision to the Clinton freshmen in a meet at Clinton on Saturday morning.

In a meet against Clinton two weeks ago, Case racked up five wins and scored 25 points, but a muscle strain suffered in the 100-yard dash limited his activity Saturday and he accounted for only seven of S-C's tallies. Smith-Cotton participants winning points in the meet were: Case (2), 100-yard dash; Schupback (2) and Yount (3), 440-yard dash; Daugherty (2) and Case (3), 120-yard low hurdles; Dunham (2) and Pauley (3), discus; Daugherty (1) and Yount (3), high jump; Taylor (1) and Kenny (2), pole vault.

The eighth graders, in winning their third consecutive meet, chalked up eight victories in the 12 event meet. Winners were: 440-yard relay team of Guffin, Wahrencrock, Wiggins and Herrick in :53.4; 440-yard dash, Campbell in :62.9; 220-yard, Dale Herrick, in :27.8; 880-yard relay team of Guffin, Kreisel, Van Winkle and Campbell in 1:56.2; high jump, Wiggins, four-feet-eight; Broad jump, Wiggins, 14-feet-8½; pole vault, Van Winkle, 7-foot-9; Discus, Broom, 79-feet-6½.

Other members of the eight grade unit winning points in given events were: 600-yard dash: Wahrenbrock (2) and Guffin (3); 100-yard dash: Wahrenbrock (2) and Herrick (3); 440-yard dash: Kreisel (2); 100-yard low hurdles: Wiggins (2) and Van Winkle (3); Shot put: Wahrenbrock (2) and Wiggins (3); High Jump: Kreisel (2); Broad jump: Kreisel (2) and Herrick (3); Discus: Van Winkle (3).

Seivers Leads Senators To 4-3 Win Over BoSox

WASHINGTON (AP) — Roy Seivers opened the last of the ninth inning with a home run off Mike Fornieles to lift Washington to a 3-3 tie with Boston Saturday and the Senators took it from there to inflict a 4-3 defeat on Leo Kiely.

The Red Sox got only three hits off Pedro Ramos and Truman Clevenger, the winner, but one was a sixth inning two-run homer by Jackie Jensen, his fourth, which gave Boston a 3-2 lead. Jensen, who has batted in eight of the nine runs Boston has scored this season, accounted for the other run in the first inning when his sacrifice fly scored Jim Piersall.

Sievers, the American League's leading home run hitter last season hadn't hit one this year either in an exhibition or during the regular season.

Land fired games of 165, 201 and 188 for a 554 series. Handicap totaling 162 pins gave them the lead.

Bob Land still leads the field with high single game and high scratch series with scores of 276 and 654. Bill Shockey's 254 is good for second high game with Boysel's 243 ranks third. Boysel has a 600 which is good for second place in scratch series competition and Hazell's 594 is lodged in third.

Yankees Hold Off Oriole Rally For 4-3 Victory

NEW YORK (AP)—The New York Yankees coasted along for eight innings Saturday behind some superb pitching by little Bobby Shantz, then needed everything they could get to stave off a ninth inning rally and gain a 4-3 victory over the Baltimore Orioles.

Ryne Duren, third Yankee pitcher to appear in the ninth, finally snuffed out the rally when he started a game-ending double play with the tying run on third base.

K-State and Colorado Divide Doubleheader

BOULDER, Colo. (AP) — Kansas State University picked up its first Big Eight Conference victory Saturday as the Wildcats split a baseball doubleheader here with Colorado.

K-State fell, 9-2, in the first seven inning game as Joe Puleo twirled a nifty five-hitter and did not allow a Wildcat earned run in picking up his second conference victory of the year.

Mike Lair came back in the second seven inning encounter to serve up only two Buff hits, both to right fielder Gene Lenderman, as K-State nipped CU, 7-5.

Lair pitched hitless ball for five innings before giving up a two-run single and a two-run homer to Lenderman. CU's league record now stands at 3-3, and K-State at 1-5.

Giants Rip LA 11-7 In Home Run Slugfest

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Five more home runs sailed over the handy left field screen at the Los Angeles Coliseum Saturday as the San Francisco Giants crushed the Dodgers, 11-4, before 41,303 sunbaked fans.

The crowd dropped off 37,000 from Friday's record, but it was larger than all but two of the other clubs' openers.

Ruben Gomez, who had shut out the Dodgers in the San Francisco opener with a six hitter, won his second game although three of the seven hits off him were home runs by Gil Hodges, Charley Neal and Dick Gray.

Spahn Pitches 5-0 Shutout at Phillies

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Warren Spahn shut out the Philadelphia Phillies 5-0 at Connie Mack Stadium Saturday helped by a lusty hit attack—including two home runs—and the sparkling defense of his Milwaukee teammates.

Spahn had a one-hitter going through the first seven innings as the 36-year-old veteran befuddled the Phillies with his assortment of curves and sinkers. A 21-game winner for the world champions last year, this was Spahn's first win of 1958. He allowed five hits, struck out four and walked five.

Milwaukee, in winning for the second time in the three-game series which winds up Sunday, scored its first run—it was enough for Spahn in the fourth inning on singles by Joe Adcock and Johnny Logan and an error on a routine grounder by Phils' shortstop Chico Fernandez.

Oklahoma's Hodgson Sparkles

Seven Meet Records Shattered In Running of Kansas Relays

By SKIPPER PATRICK

LAWRENCE, Kan. (AP) — Gail Hodgson, the tremendous middle-ditsance star of the Oklahoma sooners, and Eddie Southern, of Texas Longhorns, led their teams to bristling record performances as seven meet standards were smashed in the 33rd Kansas Relays Saturday.

Hodgson, the sophomore from South Africa, ran the mile in the unofficial time of 4:07 in anchoring Oklahoma distance medley team to a relays record of 9:50.8. In the first half of the program Friday he did the anchor leg of the sprint medley in 1:48 as the Sooners bettered the American and Intercollegiate records of 3:19.5 for that event.

Southern, one of the nation's fastest quartermilers, was clocked in :44.6 seconds in anchoring Texas to victory in the University mile relay. The time of 3:09.1 was 2 5/10 seconds under the K.U. Relays record set by Oklahoma A. & M. in 1955.

The other meet records:

University 880 yard relay: 1:23.5 by Oklahoma State's Orlando Hazley, Ken Covert, Vernon Haddox and Bob McFarling.

University 2-mile relay: 7:24.8 by Michigan State's Brian Castle, Robert Lake, David Lean and Willie Atterberry.

College 2-mile relay: 7:39.9 by Howard Payne's Van Owens, Louis Hayes, Don Shepard, and Bobbie Pullig.

Javelin throw: 232-8 by Bruce Parker, Texas.

3000-meter steeple chase: 9:12.15 by John Macy, University of Houston, unattached.

The track was fast despite a heavy rain Friday night and the Sun outdid a light drizzle that fell late in the afternoon.

Howard Payne's record in the 2-mile relay marked the third straight year that the Brownsville Tex., team altered the standard for that event here. Their record last year was 7:41.2.

Al Oerter, Kansas Olympic discus champion, became the only individual titlist to win two events in the relays by winning the shot at 55 feet, 8 inches. He won the discus on a throw of 175-2, one of his weakest efforts of the preseason, Friday.

In other outstanding jobs Saturday, Buddy McKee, of East Texas State, beat Keith Gardner, Nebraska, in the 120-yard high hurdles in 14 seconds flat. It was the second fastest high hurdles in history of the relays.

Dee Givens, Oklahoma sophomore, upset defending champion Orlando Hazley, Oklahoma State, in the 100 yard dash in 9.5 seconds.

Sports Scraps

By D. KELLY SCRUTON

THE Recreation project, which has been given considerable discussion and publicity since the city election, is not what some people would paint it. The recreation plan is a city-wide project, it is not tied in with any religious group nor is it bound up in any political package—that, I know.

The city-wide program is being worked out by men and women of integrity, people of all religions and, yes, Democrats and Republicans. It is a worthwhile program and is not one of the Salvation Army, as some people would lead others to believe.

To me it is shameful that some people cannot become boosters of a program badly needed in Sedalia and worthwhile, instead of knockers, because they came out on a losing side and the idea didn't originate in their minds. The program is one which is followed in thousands of cities throughout the country and in these cities they have the 100 per cent backing of all the leaders of their communities.

Sedalia is most fortunate in having Lt. Elizabeth Yoder of the Salvation Army assigned here. Lt. Yoder, who is trained in such activities as recreation, is a highly capable woman to handle the administrative and corrdination of the program on the start—and could carry it through if the city so desired to request her to do it.

For years Sedalia has batted city-wide recreation back-and-forth so much that the people cannot realize that it is so close to becoming a successful project. Now is the time for the young and the adults who are interested in such a program to speak up, offer your suggestions, and get the program on its way.

A plan is underway to have a questionnaire circulated through the schools and have it taken home for the parents of the school children to check over and also give forth with their own ideas what they would like in the adult division. This should bring forth a good cross-section of Sedalia as to what actually is desired in recreation for the young and the adults.

Parents are requested to cooperate on this, sign the questionnaire and send it back to school by their child so they can be surveyed for further checking by the city-wide recreation committee. It is hoped to get the questionnaire in every home and back before Friday, April 25th, when the committee will meet for further discussions.

So let's forget personalities and realize that the Catholics, Jews, Protestants, the Salvation Army and others are in full accord with the proposed program. Settle down and make this recreational project a successful and one, equal or better than those now being successfully carried out in Marshall and Jefferson City, our neighboring cities which realize the value of city-wide recreation.

—o—

SEDALIA'S athletic program todate has been for boys, the boys must be taken care of, but as I said numerous times in the past several years — What about our girls? The program needs to be coordinated and its high time the people of Sedalia realize these young girls are the future mothers of the next generation and are entitled to attention just the same as these future fathers.

The lack of organization has become notable in the past couple of years. The Industrial League, which was a good one, began folding last season and has now folded. It can be revived, and no doubt if the recreation program gets under way in time, can be saved this year.

But in the baseball line we have a good program, Little League, Babe Ruth League, now the returning of Junior American Legion, and Ban Johnson is going "great guns". Semi-Pro is being slow, but is likely to blossom out soon.

We do not have enough versatile athletics which will take care of boys who do not like baseball and the girls of the teen-age and younger groups.

A move in getting something for the young girls of the grade school age has come about—at least it is planned—for the "Play Day" of the grade schools on May 9th. I understand some type of track meet and athletic events are being discussed for the girls on the morning program while in the afternoon the grade school boys will compete in the annual track meet.

But here again, the girls are competing against each other, not as school teams. The plan for the day will be for awards to be made to the girls who are the winners. Next year maybe a full schedule girls athletic events program can be arranged with the girls competing as teams against each other on the school level.

Cooperating between the schools and an organized city-wide recreation effort all of this can be obtained for the benefit of every boy, girl, man and woman here in Sedalia.

Macauley Won't Take St. Louis Coach Job

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Easy Ed Macauley of the St. Louis Hawks, a nine-year veteran of professional basketball, Saturday removed himself from consideration for the vacant head basketball coaching job at St. Louis University.

Maculey said he intends to continue in pro basketball and then go into business on a full-time business, ruling out college coaching.

He said he was honored to be considered for the job resigned by his former coach, Eddie Hickey, who quit after 11 years at St. Louis to take the head basketball coaching position at Marquette University.

Redlegs Score 9-6 Victory Over Pirates

Tipton faces Green Ridge in the tournament opener at 11 a.m. Tuesday at Liberty Park. In other games Tuesday, Smith-Cotton faces Knob Noster at 2:30 p.m. and St. Paul's takes on Hubbard at 5 p.m. Cole Camp drew a first round bye. Tournament semi-finals will be played Thursday and the championship will be played at 3 p.m. Tuesday, April 29.

Baseball, the fastest growing high school sport in Missouri, drew 170 teams into tournament play. The Missouri State High School Athletic Association has set up 22 Sub-District meets.

Other teams familiar to Sedalia fans playing in various Sub-District tourneys include: Mexica, Jefferson City and M.M.A. at Jefferson City; and Warsaw, Calhoun and Lowry City at Lowry City.

The winner of the Sedalia-North Kansas City Sub-District Tournament will meet at Liberty Park in the District Tournament during the week ending May 3. During the week ending May 10, the winner of the Lowry City-Sedalia District will meet at Liberty Park to determine the Sectional champion.

The finals will be played in St. Louis on May 22, 23 and 24 with eight sectional champions battling for the state crown.

All tournament games will be seven innings.

Kuenn, Foytack Lead Tigers Over Indians 9 to 1

DETROIT (AP) — Centerfielder Harvey Kuenn backed up Paul Foytack's brilliant pitching with three base hits and solid defense work and the Detroit Tigers routed the Cleveland Indians, 9-1, Saturday at Briggs Stadium.

One of Kuenn's hits was a three-run home run that landed atop the left field screen and bounced into the seats. It came in the fourth inning off Cal McLish, second of five Cleveland pitchers, and gave the fast-balling righthander a six-run cushion.

Cubs, Rally to Hand Cards Fourth Straight Loss 6-3

CHICAGO (AP) — Walt Moryn and Dale Long produced five runs with homers in the eighth inning Saturday to propel the come-from-behind Chicago Cubs to a 6-3 victory over the St. Louis Cardinals.

It was the perky Cubs' fourth straight triumph over the Cardinals and kept them the only undefeated team in the majors.

Until the big eighth, Vinegar Bend Mizel had held the Cubs to six hits, including Ernie Banks' first homer of the campaign in the sixth.

Meanwhile the Cardinals hammered Taylor Phillips for two runs on five hits—highlighted by Stan Musial's homer—and added another run in the eighth when Ed Mayer forced it in by walking Don Blasingame with the bases loaded.

After a 15 minute delay by rain, the Cardinals decided to start the eighth inning with Larry Jackson in the hope of protecting the 3-1 lead.

Lee Walls led off with a safe roller down third base line. Banks walked. Moryn blasted his second homer of the season into the left field stands.

Billy Muffet replaced Jackson and the Cubs continued the bombardment. Bobby Thomson singled and Dale Long followed with his No. 1 homer. Johnny Goryl doubled, but Muffet finally retired the side leaving him stranded.

The victory went to rookie Lefty Mayer and Jackson was tabbed for the loss.

The Cardinals scored their first run in the opening inning when Del Ennis doubled home Al Dark, who had singled.

The Wrigley Field crowd was 17,993.

Greyhounds Will Make Bid for $30,000 Purse

ABILENE, Kan. (AP) — The best greyhounds in the county will race for more than $30,000 in prize purses in the eight - day spring elimination tournament of the National Coursing Assn. starting Sunday.

Competition opens with the running of the first round futurity stake in which first and second prize money has been doubled to $2,000 and $1,000 respectively. The racing in four divisions continues through the finals next Sunday.

Pat McMahon, executive secretary of the association, said more than the usual number of dogs are being entered in this year's spring meeting. Fall meets in October are usually largest with up to 1,000 dogs in competition.

Dr. C. M. Stay, Gilroy, Calif., breeder who has probably had more stake winners here than any other owner was among the early arrivals for the meet. George Oswald, who maintains large kennels here and in Los Angeles, has entered 12 top greyhounds in the major stake.

Bert Thatcher, Kokomo, Ind., oldest coursing man attending the meet, has brought only one dog for the $3,000 futurity stake. The 76-year-old Thatcher says: "only one can be winner."

Greyhound racing here differs from tracks in that dogs compete in pairs in an enclosed park area the size of three football fields. They are scored on several factors besides speed.

Ex-Smith-Cotton Coach To William Chrisman

Norman James, former head track coach and assistant football coach at Smith-Cotton, was named head football coach at William Chrisman High School in Independence this week. James succeeds Dennis Studer.

During the past two seasons, James has been assistant grid coach at William Chrisman. Prior to that he served as Ralph "Stub" Dow's assistant for four years in football and he replaced Bob Karnes as track coach at S-C in 1952. Karnes is now the head track coach at Drake University.

Ban Johnson Chiefs To Practice Sunday

Bill Arnold, manager of the Ban Johnson League in Sedalia, announced Friday that the first practice for the Chiefs will be held at 1:30 p.m. Sunday at the Liberty Park.

The baseball season for Ban Johnson opens May 25, here in Sedalia, with the local club playing against Sweet Springs.

Babe Ruth Tryouts At Park This Week

Babe Ruth try outs for boys not already assigned to a team will be held at the Liberty Park big diamond Wednesday of this week at 4:30 p.m. and Saturday morning at 9:00 a.m., weather permitting. Bring a card signed by parents along with birth certificate and physical checkup from doctor if you have not already done so. Report to player agent, Ernest Mulberry. It is important to attend all tryouts so you will have a chance to make a team.

Bicycle Riding Contest Will Be Held Saturday

Sedalia bicycle riders may check their bicycles and compete in skill riding contests on Bicycle Safety Day, next Saturday, April 26, at Liberty Park. Bicycle Safety Day is sponsored by the Sedalia Optimist Club.

The safety check and the skill riding contests will be conducted in the paved area in front of Liberty Park baseball field where the north section of West Third Street will be blocked off in order to stage the events.

Accident statistics show that 480 deaths resulted from bicycle accidents last year in the nation. Of these, 340 deaths occurred to children under 15 years of age.

The Sedalia Optimist Club seeks to call the bicycle rider's attention to the importance of having a safe bicycle, to emphasize safe and correct riding, and to request motorists to be particularly observant and careful concerning children on bicycles.

Each bicycle which passes the safety check will be identified with a scotchlite reflector strip and the owner will be given an Optimist Safety pledge identification card. Further these bicycles will be registered with the police department to aid in recovery of possible thefts.

After the safety check, the owner then may enter the skill riding contests. Five events are scheduled—balancing at slow speed, steering, circle riding, maneuvering, and braking. Each rider will be judged on these events, and the rider with the highest score will be awarded a bicycle tire. Top scorers will be announced at the Optimist Meeting on Tuesday, April 29, and will appear in the Democrat that afternoon.

Every bicycle rider in Sedalia is eligible, but must ride his own bicycle.

See Discus Record Set in Drake Relays

By L. E. SKELLEY

DES MOINES (AP)—A world record discus toss may be the biggest of the anticipated big doings at the Drake Relays next weekend.

The record could come from Al Oerter of Kansas or Richard (Rink) Babka of Southern California. Both have been beyond the world mark of 194 feet, 6 inches but those efforts aren't likely to be officially accepted by the governing bodies.

Oerter sailed the discus 202-6 at the Arkansas Relays but there was a 2½ foot slope in the landing surface. Babka got off a toss of 201-2 at Apple Valley, Calif. The discus landed in a drainage ditch and the officials eventually calculated the throw at 198-10.

Drake officials aren't taking any chances. They are ready for Oerter and Babka to figuratively throw the platter out of the park. Two new concrete discus rings have been built, surveyors have gone over the terrain and the boys can fire away without fear of losing a record because of a technicality.

The topranked discus throwers, however, aren't likely to steal the whole track and field show. Relays director Bob Karnes has come up with another entry list that compares favorably with those down through 7 years.

If the boys equal last year's record smashing, everybody at Drake would be more than happy. Thirteen Drake marks went tumbling last year.

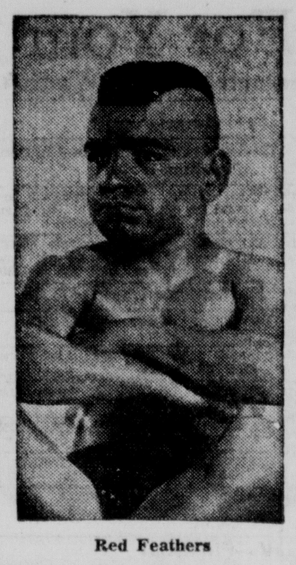

But Drake observers, tempering their enthusiasm with a plea for good weather, say the potential will be here for a similar record smashing splurge.

The oldest record on the books—the broad jump figure of 26 feet, 1¾ inches by Jesse Owens, the Ohio State Olympian — may go. Jesse did it in 1935, and it has never been touched. Ernie Shelby of Kansas, the national AAU champion, may do it. He won at the Texas Relays at 26-3½.

Another oldtimer — the 9:10 mark in the two mile by little Greg Rice of Notre Dame in 1939—could fall before the modern, fast footsteps of Deacon Jones of Iowa. Deacon has been timed in 8:57.6.

Jones also is entered in the mile run in which he holds the record of 4:10.7. The 1956 Olympic runner has done 4:06.8 but he is sure to get a terrific argument from Alex Henderson, the Australian who runs for Arizona State (Tempe). Henderson has a 4:04.5 clocking.

The usual number of swift relay teams will be here, including Texas, with its fabulous sprinter Eddie Southern; Oklahoma State, Notre Dame, Purdue and Illinois.

Red Feathers

Triple Main Event Slated For Tuesday

For variety and action, next Tuesday's mat card is the most outstanding offered here in many a season.

A triple main event, offering three tag team combinations loaded with nationally known stars, holds the sport spotlight for the week. And holding the most interest for mat fans is the mixed tag match. Mixed tag matches are a rarity and the combination of a king-sized wrestler and a midget wrestler on one team, opposing a big man and a little man on the other team, should offer a lot of variety, even for wrestling.

One of the teams in the mixed match has Big Lee Henning, a 250 pound giant, teamed up with 92 pound Tiny Roe. On the other team, Sonny Myers at 230 lbs., selected 90 pound Cowboy Bradley for his partner. All matches will be for the best two out of three falls and have a 60 minute time limit.

Main event number 2 will bring together four midgets in a tag match, and on team number one Cowboy Bradley teams up with another mighty mite, Chief Little Red Feather. Team number two is composed of Tom Thumb and Tiny Roe, both of whom are a bit on the rough side. This will be the last appearance this season of the midgets.

The third main event will offer two rugged combinations of the big fellows when Rip Hawk and Lee Henning tangle with the St. Joe team of Sonny Myers and Larry Hamilton. This match could well be a show stealer as there is a lot of tension between Rip Hawk and Larry Hamilton that stems from a previous match held here in Sedalia some time ago. The Hawk, in selecting Lee Henning for his partner, has fortified his team with one of the roughest men presently campaigning in this area, and between Hawk and Henning, the Myers - Hamilton combination will be in for a night of bumps and bruises.

Doors at the Armory open at 7:00 p.m. Matches start at 8:15.

Despite Vast Improvement

Tiger Track Squad Drops Meet to Jefferson City

Coach Forest Arnall's youthful Smith-Cotton track team displayed remarkable improvement Friday afternoon, but the Tiger thinclads dropped a 64 1-3 to 53 2-3 decision to the Jefferson City Jays in a dual meet at Jennie Jaynes Stadium.

Ten members of the S-C squad turned in the best performances of their careers as the Tigers and Jays split even with seven first place finishers each in the 14 event program.

The Bengals' mile relay team stepped off the distance in 3:40.8 to nip Jefferson City in the most thrilling event of the meet. Dennis Whitfield, Doug Gilpin and Bob Vedder legged the Tigers into the lead at the three-quarters poll and Melvin Brown held off Sam Mankin's game bid in the stretch to give Sedalia first place. Jefferson City's time was 3:41.

Tigers taking first in individual events were: Bill Reed, 100-yard dash; Clell Furnell, 180-yard low hurdles; Bill Reed, 220-yard dash; Bill Poynter, shot put; Gary Holderman, pole vault; Perry Fairfax, discus.

Melvin Brown registered a 54.4 in the 440-yard dash — the top time of his career — but the Jays' Sam Mankin took first with a flat 54 second effort.

Gary Holderman topped the ten foot barrier for the first time as he copped the pole vault, soaring 10-feet, 1-inch.

Clell Furnell whittled away on his hurdle times, running the 180-yard lows in 21.6 as he finished first and the 120-yard highs in 17.3, finishing third.

Jim Kresse ran his fastest mile, recording a 4:53.5, and teammate Cliff Chappell came in with a 4:58.3, but the Jays' Jourdon took the event with a 4:51.9 timing.

Bill Reed reached his top peak in both the 220-yard dash, which he won in :24.6, and the 100-yard dash, which he won in :10.8.

Jack Benner got off a good 19-foot, 1¼-inch leap in the broad jump in his best effort of the season, but Green of Jefferson City went to the winner's circle with a 19-foot, 11-inch leap.

Smith - Cotton's 880-yard relay team was disqualified after posting a victory in 1:39.5. Disqualification resulted from a running infraction which occurred when a member of the S-C team bumped a Jefferson City runner as he was changing lanes. Had the Tigers won this event, the final tally would have made the Jays the meet winner by 2-3 of a point, 59 1-3 to 58 2-3.

Smith-Cotton's next track meet will be April 25 in the Missouri Valley relays at Marshall.

Cities Attempting To Organize MV League

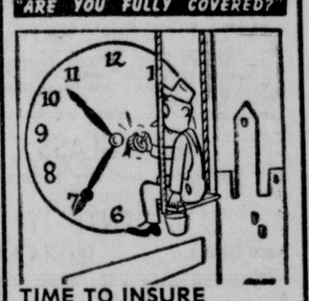

Columbia, Mexico and Jefferson City are endeavoring to organize the Missouri Valley League with the addition of another club to again affiliate with the American Amateur Baseball Congress.

At a recent meeting in Columbia, league officials said their hopes for operating the loop again this season without the Sedalia club were dim. The Sedalia Athletics participated in the Missouri Valley race during the 1957 season. The league must include four members to affiliate with the ABC.

If details cannot be arranged to organize the loop again this season, managers Glen Johnson of Columbia, Stan Adrain of Jefferson City and Fred Jenkins of Mexico indicate their clubs would play as independents.

Soviets Have Trouble Fighting Moonshiners

LONDON (AP) — Nikita Khrushchev has called upon Soviet youth to help his campaign against the "intolerable phenomenon" of drunkeness and against moonshining.

He urged the Young Communist League to stamp out the distilling of spirits at home. He said that Soviet youth does not suffer from unemployment and exploitation and "has no cause to befuddle their brains with alcohol."

He also warned against parents' pulling strings to give their children higher education and coddling them to save them from serving as workers. Khrushchev, who once was a miner, began a program in 1956 to divert secondary school graduates to farms and factories for up to two years before they continued on to college. He said the program has run into opposition from parents and school officials.

Arquitt Youths Win March Good Citizenship Awards

Eddie Arquitt

Kay Arquitt

Mr. and Mrs. George Arquitt, 1201 South Arlington, have every reason to feel very proud. They have only two children, Eddie, 15, who is about to have a birthday making him 16 and Kay, who has just reached her 14th birthday. And these two have been selected for the good citizenship awards at Smith-Cotton for the month of March.

Eddie, who seems to get along well with people and is always nice to everybody, is the type who sees things that need to be done and volunteers. He always likes to lend a hand at everything. He served as reporter for his class last year. He plays in the school band and orchestra. He is a member of the DeMolay, has been active in the Boy Scouts and served at Camp Pa-He-Tsi down on the lake one year.

Kay, who is a very likable and sweet little girl is a bit more hesitant in volunteering her services, but she seems to get into things anyway. She was elected president of her classroom which put her on the Junior Council.

Both Eddie and Kay are active in the First Baptist Church of which they are members. They have held offices in Sunday School, Training Union, Royal Ambassadors, which is the boy's group and the Girls' Auxiliary.

Both received superior in voice at the Junior Music Festival last year and Eddie went to Columbia to compete in the Music Festival there. Two years ago they received superior in piano duet.

Eddie is a sophomore at Smith-Cotton and Kay is in the Eighth Grade.

Fat Folks! Your Dream Has Come True!

NOW BARD DRUG CAN OFFER YOU THE MOST POWERFUL AID FOR QUICK REDUCING EVER RELEASED FOR PUBLIC USE!

Federal health authorities approve P.P.A.® as safe without prescription. This remarkable drug for reducing is so incredibly effective it limits the ability of your body to produce sensations of hunger! Helps you lose weight fast without special diets, "plans" exercise or feeling of self-denial because it appeases your appetite at the same time!

HUNGREX
LETS YOU ENJOY WHAT YOU EAT—YOU SIMPLY WANT TO EAT LESS!

It's new, entirely different, revolutionary! Not a bulk-filler, reducing candy or wafer. HUNGREX WITH P.P.A. is the first and only type of non-prescription product that includes these words on the label: IN THE TREATMENT OF OBESITY

So effective that it helps satisfy your appetite within minutes after you take it. So effective that once it starts to work in your body, you are as virtually protected against gnawing hunger sensations and a "runaway appetite" as it is reasonably possible to be. Thus for the first time you can really lose excess weight fast without special diets of any kind whatsoever!

Thousands Now Lose Weight Who Never Thought They Could

Imagine the thrill of overweight men and women who write day after day, some reporting remarkable weight losses up to 5 lbs. the very first week . . . 9½ pounds in 2 weeks . . . up to 18½ lbs. the very first month with P.P.A. . . . and even recording weight losses of 35 to 41 lbs. without doing anything difficult, dangerous or unpleasant!

Control Of Your Hunger And Appetite Is Automatic—So You Don't Even Have To Count Up Your Calorie Intake With A Pencil

Best of all, you'll still enjoy your food, still eat luscious steaks, chops, roasts, stews and other favorites, and still your weight will come down. Because P.P.A. drastically cuts down your craving for food without affecting your enjoyment of food. And when this happens, when you cut down your caloric intake, off comes your excess fat. It's simply burned up by your body in the form of a glorious, new release of energy for you . . . while you grow slimmer and more attractive-looking each day!

Nothing Like It Ever Available Before For Quick Reducing Without a Prescription!

As plainly as we can state it, so that there is no possibility of confusion in your mind between Hungrex and any other product: You will not find a "plan" or diet of any kind when you open your Hungrex package, as you're used to finding in other types of non-prescription reducing products! Because only Hungrex with approved-strength P.P.A. has shown it is powerful enough to help overcome the most powerful craving a human being can long endure—HUNGER! And Hungrex with P.P.A. is the only such powerful type of reducing aid that your government has ever released as safe without prescription! No other kind of reducing product can make this statement to you.

Hungrex With P.P.A.® Works As We Say —Or Your Money Back

Naturally, individuals vary. So we say try Hungrex for 1 day, 5 days, 10 days—the full 21 days if you like. Check your weight losses as you go along. See the wonderful change in your body that takes place almost daily. Then either we've fulfilled our promise to you—either you're delighted with the way you've lost weight —either you look and feel better—you've found the secret to a safe, pleasant way to get your weight down and help keep it that way—or merely return unused portion for your money back.

Double Ring Ceremony Unites Miss M. Chafen, D. Phelan

In a candlelight ceremony Saturday evening, April 5, Miss Evelyn M. Chafen, Columbia, became the bride of David Phelan, Columbia. The Rev. Ives performed the double ring ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Chafen, Council Bluffs, Ia., and the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas H. Pehlan, California.

The bride's dress was styled with a fitted lace bodice, sprinkled with irridescent sequins, and a Queen Ann collar. The long sleeves extended to points over the hands. The satin skirt was accented by an overlay of double tulle. The finger tip veil was attached to a matching headpiece of lace trimmed with sequins and seed pearls. Her only jewelry was a multi-colored gold leaf necklace and matching earrings, a gift from the groom. Yellow roses and white hyacinths with white satin streamers made up the bridal bouquet.

Miss Janet Jenkins, Cedar Falls, Ia., was the matron of honor and Miss Jean Peterson, Sidney, Ia., was the bridesmaid.

Jim Spieler, California, served as best man and Donald Peters and Alvin Conckling, Council Bluffs, ushered.

Miss Kinbrely Kochel, Council Bluffs, was the flower girl.

Matching mitts were worn with the short shirred sleeves and the voluminous skirt fell into a chapel swept train. Her veil was of silk illusion held by a tiara of seed pearls and she carried a bouquet of yellow and white daisies.

GRADUATION DRESSES

Graduation time is about here and we all thrill at the feminine dress for this very special occasion. This season has brought forth a riot of gorgeous styles and shades — each one looking more beautiful than the last. Most of the dresses are of dacron and cotton or pima cotton. Done in pastel shades such as maize, lilac, mint and our reliable pink and blue, they are all pretty. Scoop necks, tiny sleeves with fitted bodices and very full skirts with wide hems — we find it hard not to oooh and aaah at them. Some are trimmed with insets of frothy eyelet or lace; others with tiny pastel flowers on the bodice. White is not to be over-looked in this collection. Eyelet, and frosette are the fabrics and when topped with a heavy white lace collar they are exquisite. Pastel shades are ultra feminine so be sure your make-up is kept on the light side, your jewelry at a minimum and wear a delicate cologne. Save your heavy make-up and perfume for another time. Remember too, these luxurious looking dresses will be washable — therefore you can truly enjoy them.

That was 5-year-old Sparky Moore's reasoning when he went to retrieve his toys from a neighbor's home.

Halfway down the 7-by-15-inch chimney, Sparky got stuck. His wails attracted a passing saleswoman who climbed the roof and calmed him. Sparky's mother also arrived. She and the saleswoman rescued the youngster with a garden hose.

LITTLE PIGS GO TO DINNER—This low, prefabricated, 12-sided wooden structure, unveiled at Waukon, Iowa, is likely, according to farm experts, to revolutionize hog-raising methods. The "pigloo's" shape—resembling an Eskimo igloo—causes the sow to lie with her back toward structure's outer walls and her udders inward. Then these little piggies go to dinner, emerging only part-way from the iron-barred center circle which provides safety from crushing. Metal guard rail behind sow also prevents injury from mother's bulk to any piglet that wanders around the perimeter. Sow enters "pigloo" at least seven days before farrowing.

Segregational Government Wins Again

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (AP)—South Africa's militantly segregationist government has won another five years in power with its parliamentary strength virtually unchanged.

The victory for the ruling National party in Wednesday's election might bring significant changes in the country's relations with Britain, however.

Prime Minister Johannes Strijdom and other Nationalist leaders had appealed for endorsement as an indication that the majority of the country's whites want to establish a republic and loosen ties with the British crown. A voluble segment of the National party wants South Africa to quit the British Commonwealth entirely. So far the party's top leadership has not come out so strongly.

Strijdom in a victory statement made clear his party will maintain its rejection of criticism in the United Nations of the Nationalist racial policy.

"The answer that has been given to our opponents here and to all those who libel our country beyond our borders," he said, "is that the electorate of South Africa is still solidly behind the government and our policy, and that no interference in our domestic affairs will be tolerated."

Less than a million white citizens voted for the Parliament which will rule this nation of three million whites, 1,200,000 coloreds (mixed race) and 10 million Negroes.

With only 3 of 156 districts still unreported, the Nationalists had won 100 seats compared with 96 in the last Parliament. The opposition United party, which favors a milder segregation policy, took 53 seats compared with 52 previously. Minor parties were wiped out.

The new 163-seat House will also include four white members of the United party elected by the coloreds two weeks ago to represent them and three whites to be chosen to represent the Negroes.

About Home State

Washington Teacher Asks Students Make Scrapbook

Mrs. Mae Terrell, teacher of one of the fifth grades at Washington School, in an effort to create a knowledge and a love for their home state, asked those who wanted to make scrapbooks. That was six weeks ago and she had no idea what some of those youngsters could produce in six weeks.

Since this was not compulsory, only eight of her pupils made scrapbooks, but each one of them was an outstanding accomplishment and showed the great amount of time and work that had gone into them. Those who made scrapbooks were Ann Murrell, Barbara Lanpher, Tonna Kay Handley, Billy Bob Long, Rita Sue Hamlin, Judy Christian, Judy Davidson and Gayle Rose.

First place was a tie between Ann Murrell and Billy Bob Long with Barbara Lanpher second and Tonna Kay Handley, third.

Billy Bob Long didn't seem to miss a thing in gathering his material on Missouri, and compiled it beautifully with each division separate. The divisions were marked with a page across which was printed what it was about such as "Missouri Schools"; "Highway Patrol", "Sports Hall of Fame", "Whiteman Air Force Base" and under each were pictures and information giving complete outline of each phase of Missouri history and Missouri of today.

Among the things Billy Bob had in his book were: Lake of the Ozarks, Battle of Lexington, Pony Express, Missouri State Fair, Missouri's churches, sorghum making, Tom Sawyer, State Fair Bowl, Missouri bridges, rural free delivery, rural electrification, institutions, the capitol building, state song and even had a few bars of music of the Missouri Waltz, the state bird, state flower, state seal, pictures of Missouri's president, Harry S. Truman, Mrs. Truman, senators, representatives, and many other things about the state.

It was the cover of Ann Murrell's scrapbook that made it so unusual. On the bright red cover was a raised map of Missouri into which was embedded the products for which the various sections of the state are noted. Tiny pieces of coal and different kinds of ore were scattered about over the map, cotton, wheat and other grains marked the areas where these are grown, wee plastic fruits were here and there and even, yes, even a small plastic mule.

Ann's book was filld with information about the state, too, with the history of Missouri, the government, the bird, seal, and even a letter from Milton Overstreet, state representative to whom she had written seeking material for her scrapbook. He sent her all of the books, pamphlets and information he could find on the state. Her book included places of interest over the state, had information on Missouri's principal cities, told in pictures and information of the livestock, the fruit and the grain, of Missouri as a Land of Vacation and even had a printed picture of Thomas Hart Benton's painting, "July Hay."

Barbara Lanpher's book had a unique cover, too. It was made of wood and varnished. It opened with small hinges. On the front was a map of Missouri. Tonna Kay Handley's book had the map and flower of Missouri painted in oil. Both of the books were filled with pictures and facts about the state and were attractively compiled.

The other books, too, were exceptionally nice. The children had all gone to a great deal of trouble to find pictures and facts about Missouri. They found good cooperation, too, both from the Sedalia Chamber of Commerce and the state. Surely nothing about Missouri was left out even to Jesse James. Some had his home and another had a picture of where he held up the train. There were historical points, beauty spots of Missouri, industry and agriculture.

The books will be on display at open house at the school soon and every one of them is well worth the tmie spent looking at them.

Miss Bessie Perkins is principal of the school.

Lana Turner Has Approval Of Directors

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — "Would you hire Lana Turner for a movie?"

This question was put to a dozen producers this week at the Screen Producers Guild dinner. These are the men who make the casting decisions, who can make or break a star.

Their answer was unanimous: absolutely yes.

"I wouldn't hesitate to cast her in a picture if I had the right property," said Buddy Adler, production chief at 20th Century-Fox.

"I not only would cast her, I'm actively seeking her for 'The Sound and the Fury'," said Jerry Wald, who produced Lana's current starring film, "Peyton Place."

He added: "We've had a spot check around the country of reactions by audiences watching 'Peyton Place.' The response has been warm and sympathetic."

Said David O. Selznick: "Certainly I would cast Lana if I had the right part for her. Church authorities have stated that they will not censure performers because of their private lives."

Producer-star John Wayne was vehement in his reply: "Sure, I'd hire her! If people don't stop picking on that poor girl, I'd star her in the green rushes." He referred to the uncut versions of a day's work in a studio.

Veteran Bryan Foy remarked: "Lana will be bigger than ever. The tide of public opinion is going in her direction."

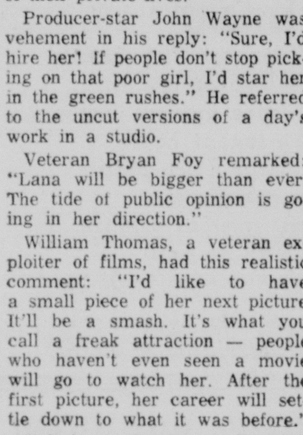

William Thomas, a veteran exploiter of films, had this realistic comment: "I'd like to have a small piece of her next picture It'll be a smash. It's what you call a freak attraction — people who haven't even seen a movie will go to watch her. After the first picture, her career will settle down to what it was before."

It is ironic that Lana's first picture after her daughter Cheryl's fatal stabbing of Johnny Stompanato will be the one on which she stands to profit the most. The film is "Another Time, Another Place," the first production by her own Lanturn Productions.

Paramount is releasing the film and is rushing it into the nation's theaters in the next few weeks.

Schildkraut Has Amazing Film Career

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — From "Orphans of the Storm" to "The Diary of Anne Frank"—that's the story of the amazing film career of Joseph Schildkraut.

Once counted out by Hollywood, the Vienna-born actor is at the height of his career in the role of Otto Frank, which he created on the stage. All of which proves that talent will pay off in the long run.

The run started back in 1921, when Schildkraut made his first movie, the D. W. Griffith tearjerker, costarring with Lillian Gish. Off and on ever since, he has been associated with the movies in various guises—as a smooth leading man, diabolical heavy, kindly character man, etc.

His last absence was the longest. He quit films 10 years ago after three years at Republic.

"That was when I was making 'Hopalong Manischewitz' pictures," he recalled ruefully. "It was a dark period of my life, and I'd just as soon forget it."

He named some of the pictures he would rather remember . . . "The Life of Emile Zola," for which he won a supporting actor Oscar as Capt. Dreyfus . . . "The Tell-Tale Heart," a memorable two-reeler for MGM . . . "Show Boat," the first one, costarring Laura LaPlante . . . "Marie Antoinette," "King of Kings," etc. . . .

But the greatest of all is his present role, as the kindly father of adolescent Anne Frank. After playing the role over a thousand times on the stage, he finally met Otto Frank when the latter was in this country.

He is looking forward to a reunion with Frank when the film company goes to Amsterdam for locations.

"We have a rendezvous at the Amster Hotel, a most significant place," said Schildkraut. "It was there that Mr. Frank met with Garson Kanin, who directed the play, and Frances Goodrich and Albert Hackett, who wrote it.

"Garson took one look at Mr. Frank and said: 'Why, it's Pepi (his nickname) Schildkraut with a bald head and a mustache.'"

To complete the resemblance, Schildkraut donated his own luxuriant growth of hair. For three years, he has shaved his pate with an electric razor twice daily. The mustache is from the makeup box; the actor is unable to grow one that qualifies.

Spend Weekend In Sullivan County

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Buffon, La Monte, and George E. Brim, Kansas City, spent the weekend in Sullivan County.

Mrs. Buffon was born and spent her childhood near Newton. She attended Center Grove School and Church. The church is now being used for Sunday School. They visited her father's farm (the C. W. Harpham farm) and the Judd farm now owned by Mrs. Buffron's cousin, Edgar Judd. The Judd farm had been homesteaded by Edgar's great-grandfather. They spent the night with the Judds. They visited the Deer Lick Well, where many people had watered their horses as they were passing through and Mrs. Buffon remembered the old oaken bucket still in use.

Mrs. Buffon left Sullivan County when she was 13 years old and had not been back since but she was still familiar with many of the places and families of the area.

Yul Brynner, Maria Schell (right) and Claire Bloom enact the dramatic personate of the love triangle in "The Brothers of Karamazov," filmization of the great Destoyesky novel. The picture also stars Lee J. Cobb, Albert Salmi and Richard Basehart. "The Brothers of Karamazov" opens today at the Uptown Theatre.

Liz Taylor Gets Gentlest Of Treatment

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Elizabeth Taylor, who returned to work this week for the first time since the death of husband Mike Todd, is being given the gentlest of treatment by her studio.

She wasn't required to come in early for costume fittings on "Cat on a Hot Tin Roof," though her loss of eight pounds required some alterations. Her dresses were tucked in on the set.

Her first scenes were merely reacting to the dialogue of others —Paul Newman, Burl Ives, Jack Carson, Judith Anderson and Madaleine Sherwood. Then she stepped into the scene with a few lines of her own.

Because she was tired, the studio sent her home in midafternoon, and she was given the next day off. But she'll soon have to buckle down to some heavy dramatics.

"Unfortunately, we got most of her easy scenes out of the way in the week she worked before Todd died," said director Richard Brooks. "We were shooting in sequence until we lost her. Then Burl Ives got sick and we had to suspend. By now we've shot everything in the picture except those scenes with Liz.

"She's going to have some rough work ahead. I'm concerned because so much is concerned with death—Big Daddy (Ives) is dying of cancer."

Brooks said he expected the shooting to last another four or five weeks. He saw Liz after the tragedy and gained the impression that she didn't expect to win the Oscar for "Raintree County." Todd seemed to have prepared her for defeat this year, but held out the prospect she would win next year for "Cat." It's entirely possible.

Says Ike, Benson Are 'Corporating' Land

WASHINGTON (AP)—Rep. Christopher (D-Mo) says President Eisenhower and Secretary of Agriculture Benson are trying to replace family-type farming with "corporate land ownership and labor-camp operation."

Many young farmers are being forced to drive long distances to work in city factories five days a week to make a living, Christopher said in a statement in the Congressional Record yesterday.

He said Benson probably would class them as submarginal and inefficient farmers.

"Probably 75 per cent of all inefficient by the Benson standard when they began to farm," he added.

Mrs. Shoemaker and Mrs. Townsend also visited with Michael Sedlak, 10, at the Memorial Hospital in Lawrence and with Terry Kay 9, Kathy Jo 6, and Rickey 5, who have been dismissed from the hospital. Mrs. Sedlak also in the accident is still in the hospital.

Lana Turner Movie Rushed For Release

By JAMES BACON

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Lana Turner's new movie, its release pushed up to ride with the headlines, shows the blonde actress in near-suicidal grief over the death of an illicit lover.

The movie, "Another Time, Another Place," was originally scheduled for September release but Paramount Pictures now plans to release it May 1.

"The picture is a gamble both for us and Lana," said a Paramount executive who didn't want his name used. "It could well decide what effect Lana's current troubles will have on her career."

Most Hollywood sources believe that the sensational headlines about the slaying of Lana's underworld boy friend Johnny Stompanato will boost her box office value. Lana's daughter Cheryl Crane, 14, told police she stabbed Stompanato April 4 to protect her mother from harm at his hands.

In a new development, Beverly Hills police turned up some bank books of the dead man and with them another mystery.

One of the books was made out to Mrs. Rosemary Trimble, the beautiful blonde wife of a West Los Angeles physician. It showed a balance of $2,500. A wedding ring, inscribed: "From here to eternity — Rosemary and John" also was found.

Mrs. Trimble married to the same man for 15 years, said she knew Stompanato but had no idea how her name happened to be among his effects.

In Woodstock, Ill., Stompanato's brother Carmine refused to deny published reports quoting Cohen as saying that Carmine would file a $399,999 damage suit against the actress. But he also said no decision had been made about filing the suit.

JOANNE WOODWARD — Academy Award Winner, Best Actress of The Year, Here Today.

Paul Newman, as "Ben Quick," and Joanne Woodward, as "Clara," appear in a key scene from the Jerry Wald production of William Faulkner's "The Long, Hot Summer," the story of the effect upon an entire community and one family in particular of a ruthless, strong man. The Twentieth Century-Fox presentation opens today at the Fox Theatre.

Jeff Chandler's estranged wife, Jeanne Crain, comes back to him when he gets into serious trouble and is offering him a drink to steady his nerves in the scene from Universal-International's "The Tattered Dress," filmed in CinemaScope with Chandler, Miss Crain, Jack Carson, Gail Russell and Elaine Stewart as its stars. The co-feature "Ft. Yuma" is a Technicolor production starring Peter Graves. Both features showing tonite & Mon. at the 50 Drive-In Theatre.

Margarine Use Tops Butter First Time On Per Capita Basis

WASHINGTON (AP)—For the first time in history, the per capita consumption of margarine has surpassed that of butter.

The Agriculture Department reported today that consumption of butter last year averaged 6.5 pounds while that of margarine averaged 8.6 pounds. In 1955, the butter average was 8.7 compared with 8.2 for its competitor.

This represents a sharp change in the consumption pattern of these two products since 1935. In that year, the per capita use of butter was 17.6 pounds compared with 3 pounds for margarine.

Department officials expect the difference to widen more this year with margarine making further gains.

This shift in consumption is reflected in the marketing of milk. In 1935, for instance, 43.4 per cent of the milk sold by farmers went into production of butter. Last year only 10.8 per cent was used for butter.

Sales of milk for fluid consumption took 45 per cent of last year's milk supply compared with 33.4 in 1935.

February Population Increased Less

WASHINGTON (AP) — The month-to-month increase in the nation's population was less in February than in any month in the past five years.

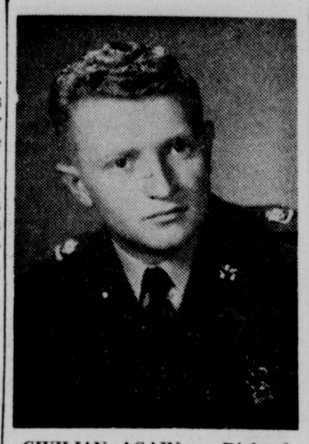

Census Bureau statisticians said today the February slump was caused by an increase in deaths because of respiratory ailments including the second wave of Asian flu.

Here's what the bureau figures happened to the civilian population in February:

For the first time since February 1953, the month-to-month gain did not top 200,000; the civilian population increased by 195,000 to a total of 170,562,000.

With the armed forces added, the estimated population on March 1 was 173,210,000, representing a February gain of 199,000. Here again the increase was at a five-year low.

It said there were 10,000 more deaths in February than in the same month a year ago, and 5,000 fewer births.

CIVILIAN AGAIN — Richard L. Sprinkles, son of Mr. and Mrs. R. F. Sprinkles, Route 4, who for the past 29 months has been in Germany with the U. S. Army, received his separation at Ft. Sheridan, Ill. and arrived in Sedalia April 11. Richard enlisted in the Army on May 12, 1955, for a period of three years. He graduated in 1954, at Smith-Cotton High School.

Few Tools Needed

Maintenance Problem Easily Converted Into Good Facility

Simple tools, a supply of ceramic tile and surprisingly little time and money are all you need to turn home maintenance problems into good looking, carefree facilities.

Whether you want to remodel the kitchen, bathrooms, fireplace or patio, the first step is to check whether the surface to receive the ceramic tile is sound, plumb and free of any material that might interfere with the bond of the adhesive that holds the tile to the wall or whatever.

If the surface passes this test, the next step is to prime any areas that will be exposed to steam or water. Seal all openings around fixtures, for example, with waterproof tape. When you are ready to start tiling, begin around the tub if it's a bathroom. If the tub is not level make your cuts in the first row of tiles to establish a straight line.

Use a saw tooth trowel to apply the waterproof adhesive on the wall. Avoid spreading on too much adhesive or the excess will ooze up between the tiles when they are pressed into place. Apply adhesive to about 10 square feet at a time and then press the tiles into place. Glazed tile made in this country has small raised bars on the edges to insure straight lines.

To cut glazed tile simply mark the glazed surface lightly with a pencil parallel to ridges on unglazed side. Using a glass cutter score the tile along this line. Then place the unglazed side of the tile over a large nail with the pencil line parallel with the nail. Apply pressure and the tile will break evently. Use pliers to break off bits of tile when fitting around fixtures. Fixture flanges and cement will conceal rough edges.

After installation allow the tile to set overnight so volatile elements in the adhesive will escape.

STEP No. 1: Spread adhesive on the primed surface, using a saw tooth trowel. Cover about 10 square feet at a time and set tiles before the adhesive hardens. Primer and adhesive are flammable.

STEP No. 3: Fill the spaces between tiles with grout, which is a fine white cemnet. First mix the grout with water to the consistency of heavy cream. Then force it into the joints.

STEP No. 2: Set the ceramic tile into place on the adhesive, using a twisting motion of the hand. Press each tile firmly. If excessive adhesive oozes out onto the tile face, remove it with a solvent.

FOR FLOORS: Small unglazed tiles install quickly because they are mounted on sheets of paper. Remove paper with a damp sponge after tiles have set an hour. After one day, grout.

Then soak the tile joints with plenty of water.

After soaking, grouting is the next step. Mix enough water with a commercial tile grout to form a paste with the consistency of heavy cream. Work this grout into the tile joints with a sponge or rubber gloves. The excess grout that will partly cover the tile sponges off readily. Polish the finished job with a dry cloth.

Most grouts should be wetted several times a day during the four days following installation so they will cure properly.

Washington Schedules Civic Oration Meet

"Shrines of America" is the subject to be discussed by seventh grade school students in the Civic Oration Contest to be held at Washington School during the month of April, it was announced today.

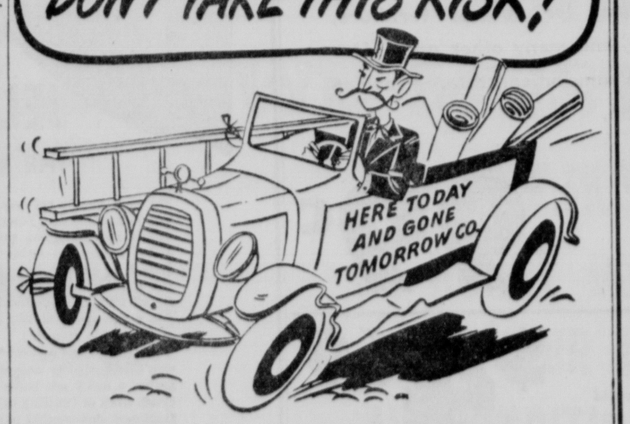

The 11th in a series of annual contests sponsored by Modern Woodmen of America, the competition will be supervised by Mrs. Leon Hall and Gerald Cain.

According to Ralph Henson, two individual trophies will be given, one each to the winner and the runner-up. Another trophy, to be presented to the school, will be engraved with the winner's name. Five other gold pin awards will be made during preliminary competition. All trophies and prizes are provided by Modern Woodmen of America.

Finalists will be chosen during elimination contests held in the individual classrooms. The names of the three local civic leaders who will judge the final event, will be announced at a future date, as will the date and location of the finals.

Rates High In Modernization

American Homes Need More Improvements in Lighting

Four out of five American homes are woefully in need of improvement on the score of illumination, according to the American Home Lighting Institute, trade association of fixture manufacturers and distributors.

Because proper lighting has such an important bearing on comfort beauty and safety (to say nothing of preserving good vision), it might well rate high priority in any program of home modernization.

For many years, bathroom lighting has probably been the most neglected of any room in the home, according to the Institute, which points out that the man and woman of the house can actually improve their appearance by using more effective lighting to shave and make-up.

Minimum lighting standards call for one fixture on both sides of the bathroom mirror. For general lighting, they call for one fixture located above the mirror or on the ceiling.

Stall showers should be equipped with a waterproofed ceiling fixture with the switch far enough away to prevent use while standing in the stall.

Each of these fixtures should accommodate one 20-watt fluorescent bulb; or, if incandescent lighting is used, one 60-watt bulb, or two 40-watt bulbs. Modern bathroom fixtures are available in enough styles and shades to fit the decor of any bathroom.

Adequate lighting standards for other rooms as set forth by the Institute are as follows:

Living Room: At least one ceiling fixture should be provided. In addition, center fixtures in corners, or valance, or cornice lighting above windows are suggested.

Bedroom: There should be a ceiling fixture in each bedroom to provide the overhead light necessary for safety.

Kitchen: A center ceiling fixture is necessary to throw light into cabinets and drawers. Fixtures should also be provided over the range, sink and counters.

Closets: Each closet should have a ceiling or wall fixture. Ideally this should be controlled by a switch that turns on the light when the door is opened.

Halls and Stairways: A ceiling fixture is called for in every hall, along with a fixture at the foot and head of stairways.

Basement: Separate fixtures are indicated for laundry, furnace, storage and workbench areas.

Exterior: Lights should be provided by front, rear and side doors.

Garage: A center ceiling fixture is essential.

Attic: Each enclosed space should have one fixture.

For convenience, fixtures should be controlled by wall switches at room entrances. In rooms where entrances are more than 10 feet apart, multiple-control switches should be provided. These are switches located in different parts of the room controlling the same fixture, whereby you can light the way ahead of you.

In replacing old fashioned fixtures with modern ones, be sure to turn off the main switch or remove the fuse before starting the work.

Open Lawn Space Gives More Beauty

Some open lawn space is essential for landscape beauty around the home. In many locations where the soil is loamy and rich, a good lawn can be maintained merely by cutting the grass often and allowing the grass clippings to remain, says the American Association of Nurserymen. Only occasional seeding of bare spots and the plucking of weeds by hand or use of a good lawn weed killer is necessary.

Starting with bare ground, however, the following are steps which will assure the kind of lawn you can be proud of.

1. Proper grading and preparation of soil. The ground preferably should slope slightly away from buildings to afford good drainage. If grading is necessary, push the top soil aside first and then replace it on top of the ground when the grading is completed.

The ideal soil is spongy enough to hold a store of water, sandy enough to crumble easily, and has enough clay to hold it together. Additives will give it the right consistency — if too sandy add clay soil; if too much clay, add sand and mix the top couple of inches thoroughly.

Fertilier may be added. Commonly used formulas are 12 per cent nitrogen, 6 per cent phosphorous, and 6 per cent potash, as well as 10-6-4. Rake in thoroughly.

2. Favorite grasses for different climates vary widely. Be sure of what you are getting. The seed formula will be on the container.

3. After preparing the soil and planting seed or sod as the case may be, a good rolling to firm it down is desirable. Soak well with a fine spray from hose or sprinkler.

4. Watering is highly important. It is necessary for seed germination and to put fertilier in soluble form for use by the plant. Water whenever the soil becomes dry until the grass is well established.

Painting Is Easy When Done Right

Painting is easy, if you go at it in the right way. The first step is proper preparation. Be sure you have on hand all the necessary materials. You'll need: Sufficient paint to finish the job at one session, good quality brushes, plenty of newspaper and masking tape (painter's drop cloths really are better) and thinner.

Don't forget to wear old clothes. Either gloves or protective cream on your hands will make the washing-up easier. If the job involves plaster walls, have some spachtle and a flexible putty knife on hand. Move the furniture out of the room or pile it all in the center and cover with a drop cloth.

Check that both your brushes and the surfaces to be painted are clean. Grease and soot on the wall will prevent paint from binding to the old surface properly and eventually cause peeling and alligatoring.

Use good quality materials. There is no doubt that in the long run you will save monye and get a lot more satisfaction by using the best available paints and brushes.

While professionals favor the 5 inch wall brush, the amateur will find it more convenient to use one that is 3 to 4 inches wide. You'll need a 1½ or 2 inch varnish brush for trim.

After you have covered the floor and furniture with drop cloths or newspapers and removed switch and outlet plates, you are ready to begin. The best practice fro the do-it-yourselfer is to paint the walls first and then do the trim.

If you are right-handed work from left to right around the room, reverse this if you're a southpaw. Always work from top to bottom.

In doing the walls, paint in strips about three feet wide. Paint rapidly with bold strokes so that one strip will not set before you start the next. Remember to always brush back into the work already done.

Stippling is easy and adds immeasurably to the beauty of walls done in flat oil paints. Best way to do it is to use a roller stipple. As soon as you finish a strip with your brush, roll the stippler up and down it. Use a roller covered with carpet, not sheep wool.

Before doing the trim, mask the walls with newspaper and masking tape. . . or use the inexpensive tool known as the "painter's helper."

Of course, if the ceiling needs re-coating it should be done first of all. The easiest method is to stretch planks between two ladders so that your head is about 4 inches from the ceiling. You can then paint a full wall-to-wall strip without getting down.

Landscaping And Planting First Project

Landscaping and planting the home property is one of the first considreations in a home improvement program. Fifty million home gardeners this season will be planting trees and shrubs to make their home properties more liveable, more beautiful and more valuable, says the American Association of Nurserymen, with the jobs ranging in size from a few shrubs to complete landscaping programs.

An advantage of home improvement through landscaping is that the home-owner, if he ever wants to sell the property, will get a higher resale price. Well landscaped homes bring 15 to 20 per cent more in the real estate markets. In setting out to improve your property with landscaping, start with a well-conceived plan.

First, study the location of your house and the slope of the ground. Look at the property as a whole, not just house, or drive, or yard.

Your planting for best effect must have unity, that is it must tie house, drive, walks and land together to make a pleasing picture.

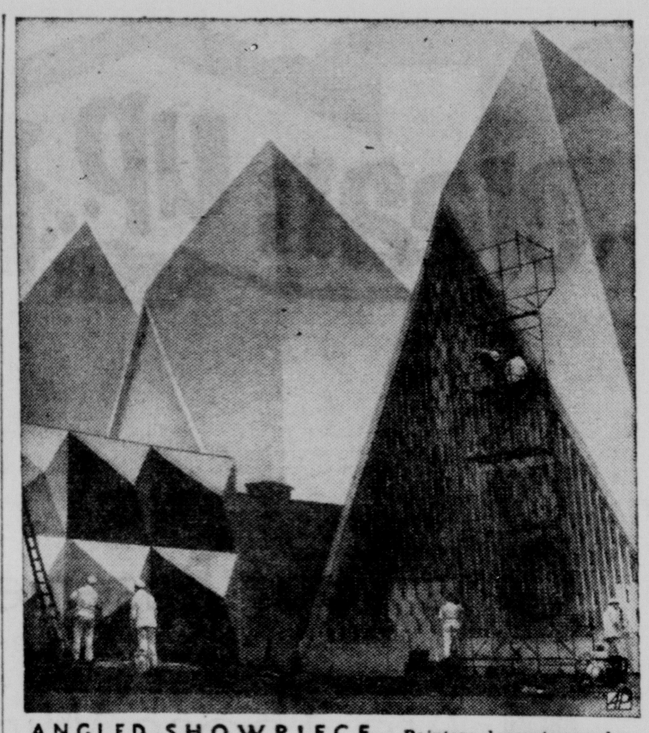

Eventually you will want a planting around the foundation of the home to tie it to the ground in a natural way. Bare, stark walls are unsightly. In the foundation planting you will want low-growing shrubs and plants that will not grow above the first floor windows.

A tree at the most open corner of the home will be desirable for accent. In front of the foundation planting open lawn space is popular in order to present an unobstructed sweep of grass.

If you have a lovely open view from any locations on the property do not plant anything but low-growing plants to set off the view. Tall shrubs and trees should only be planted to frame the view, not to block it.

Conversely, if you have an unsightly view, or need privacy where houses are close together, a screen planting of tall shrubs or trees should be made.

Sometimes one wishes a low line of demarcation between his property and the next. A living fence of roses or low shrubs may serve in that case to be admired by your neighbor as well as your own family.

Remodeling Of Kitchen Is Dream Of Home-Owners

If your house is more than 17 years old—and nearly half of America's 26 million family-owned dwellings antedate World War II—chances are you have at least imagined the joys of modernizing your kitchen.

If so, you are right in step with the times, for modernization is an important trend in the United States right now—kitchen remodeling in particular. A survey conducted last year indicates that of all home-owners' planning improvements, one out of every five was planning kitchen modernization.

For successful kitchen planning, the preliminary step should be a conference of all members of the family to determine exactly what requirements the kitchen should fill.

Planning will be well along by the time you've asked yourselves such questions as: What are the complaints about the present layout? Should there be dining space in the kitchen? Does the whole family gather there frequently? And, is more than one person apt to be working and-or cooking at the same time?

Do we need an extra oven, sink, or more refrigeration space? Where should the washer and dryer go? Are there any structural bottlenecks, such as unnecessary partitions or pantries? Is entertaining an important factor in our family, so that service and clean-up should be made easier than it is now?

And so on and on, until you have a clear picture of how a well-planned new kitchen can harmonize with your family's way of life.

"Remodeling" is a term coering a broad range. Modern straight-line, mix-or-match appliances are designed to stack and fit together in such a way that a custom-look kitchen is the result. In some cases, merely the installation of new cabinets and appliances will modernize a kitchen. From there, remodeling can range all the way up to a thorough re-building project that includes walls, floor and ceiling.

Whether your remodeling plan is modest or ambitious there are certain physical features which should be checked first, most importantly, the existing plumbing and wiring.

Ancient piping may require replacement, and depending on such additions as dishwasher, Disposall, and automatic washer, you may require additional traps and plumbing lines.

In many old houses, wiring is outmoded and simply not adequate for today's requirements.

Walls which are badly cracked or damaged can be remedied with the use of an interior wall finish, such as wood panelling or wallboard. Similarly, prefinished wood flooring or tiling can be laid over a deficient flooring.

IT'S TIME TO REMODEL

Insulation Plays Important Role In Winter Or Summer

Insulation does an important two-way job for the homeowner. During the summer months, it helps keep the sun's heat outside the house, and hence reduces room temperatures considerably. In the winter, it keeps furnace heat inside the house and thus reduces heating costs by as much as one-third.

Actually, insulation usually pays for itself within a relatively short time, through the savings effected in fuel bills.

Insulating materials are made of mineral wool, rock, glass or slag, paper pulp, gypsum, asbestos, cork, aluminum foils, vermiculite, cotton and other vegetable and mineral matter.

Many types of insulation can be installed by the home owner himself. However, the techniques which utilize air pressure to literally blow mineral wool into walls, ceilings and floors over unheated areas call for the specialized know-how and equipment of a professional mineral wool contractor.

Wall Insulation

To insulate a wall, the contractor's skilled workmen remove small pieces of siding on the outside of the house and drill small holes in the sheathing to get at the hollow spaces in the wall.

The nozzle of a long, flexible rubber hose is inserted in the opening, and the mineral wool is pumped through the tube from a truck parked at the curb. The insulation passes into the wall under pressure, which packs the mineral wool into cracks and crevices, and around braces, wires and other obstructions, insuring a thick, efficient seal.

When the job is complete, pieces of siding are skillfully replaced so that the house looks the same as it did before.

Similar methods are employed to blow mineral wool into ceilings and floors which need insulation. In most cases, workmen need never enter a house, since the methods employed are designed to do the job as quickly as possible without disturbing the household.

Mineral wool contractors usually recommend that walls be filled with insulation, and that a thickness of at least four inches be installed in ceilings. A two-inch thickness is recommended for floors over unheated crawl spaces, garages and porches.

Attic Insulation

When it comes to attic insulation, this is something that the average home owner can do himself. The two principal methods of installation are (1) stapling blanket insulation between roof rafters and (2) spreading "fill type" insulating material between attic floor joists.

Where insulation can be applied on an open surface, the so-called blanket type is often indicated. This comes in long rolls as well as in "batts" or pre-cut sections.

The "batts" or pre-cut sections are simply placed in the hollow spaces between studs, rafters and joists in walls or ceilings or under the roof, or between the joists of unfloored attics. Long rolls can be cut to the desired dimensions, as installed. A simple stapling gun can be used to tack each roll.

To install "batts" or pre-cut sections in floored attics, it will be necessary to remove the floorboards. In such situations, "fill type" insulation (which comes in bales or bags) is favored. Only one of two floorboards need be removed, and the material poured under the floored portion, where it can be smoothed by means of a "cardboard rake" nailed to wooden handle.

"Fill Type" Insulation

If the attic is unfloored, "fill type" insulation can be poured directly from the bag into the spaces between the joists where it should be evened off to a three inch depth.

The job of insulation can sometimes be combined with at attic conversion project by the use of "insulating boards" which have sufficient structural strength to use as a base for plaster. Many boards themselves provide a decorative finish.

Another type of insulation uses heat-flective materials, such as aluminum foil, which is bonded to heavy building paper or wallboard.

MINERAL WOOL INSULATION is being installed in the walls of this house by a contractor's skilled workmen. One at right drills openings in sheathing of exterior wall. His partner, left, blows mineral wool into the stud spaces through hose. Siding which has been removed, will be neatly replaced when wall is finished.

Pop-Up Shelving Answers Problem of Counter Space

By MR. FIX
Distributed by NEA Service

Space for living in many of today's homes leaves precious little room for much-needed counter area.

One way handy men can solve the problem without fencing the family in is to install pop-up shelving.

Only requirement, spacewise, is that there be a vertical clearance of at least 22½ inches to allow for fold-away position of the pop-up mechanism.

Available through hardware and building supply outlets, popups are simply folding steel brackets, each fitted with springs that hold it in either up or down position.

Each bracket locks in "up" position and a simple trigger release permits you to fold it out of the way quickly.

Simple to install, brackets screw in place. All you have to add is a counter top in whatever width suits your purpose. The top can be made of standard, ¾-inch plywood for many installations.

If your shelf is to be placed in serving areas, a high density, overlaid plywood top is suggested. That material resists staining, scratching and marring to a marked degree.

Other possibilities: various hardboards, plastic-coated hardboards and common lumber. If lumber is used, be sure to surface it with linoleum or rubber tile.

There are many places where you can use a pop-up shelf: kitchen, nursery, recreation room and work shop are just a few locations.

One gregarious handy man installed a battery of shelves around the perimeter of his recreation room.

By day, the room is a play area for the children.

In the evening, a quick tug on each shelf and placement of folding chairs sets up the room for serving after-party snacks in just a few moments.

TWIN LAVATORIES double the usefulness of this remodeled bathroom. Large mirror increases the air of spaciousness, slides to reveal storage area. Recessed shelves on either side increase storage space and provide attractive setting for decorative accessories. By American-Standard.

COMPLETE BATHROOM is made possible in little more than powder room space by means of this small compact tub, which is ideal for children or elderly persons, because of the low 12-inch sides. Restal by American-Standard.

For Leaking Fixtures

Time to Give Some Thought To Modernizing Bathrooms

Does your family often wait in line to use the bathroom? Do the fixtures leak or show signs of cracking or discoloration? Is the bathroom cramped for storage of towels, linens, cleansers and cosmetics? If your answers to one or more of these questions is yes, it is time to give serious thought to remodeling your bathroom. No other room in your home is as important to family health and comfort.

Fixtures that show signs of age should be replaced—cracks in the finish not only are unsightly, but are breeding places for germs.

A new bathtub is essential if yours is an uncomfortable, hazardous claw-foot tub. Since a new tub installation probably will be the costliest part of your remodeling job, it is wise to select a tub made of durable materials. Enameled cast iron bathtubs are smooth and will not dim or peel through many years of use. Acid-resisting finishes protect against stains and discolorations.

The tub style you select will depend upon available space, your taste and your budget. Standard rectangular tubs come in lengths of 4½, 5 and 5½ feet and heights of 14 and 16 inches.

Next, the toilet and lavatory (or washbowl) should be replaced. If space permits, try partitioning the toilet from the rest of the bathroom. If not, a partial partition of laminated plastic or similar material offers a degree of privacy.

Choose a toilet made either in one piece or with tank and bowl close-coupled. This insures a quiet flushing action and is easy to keep clean. And, investigate seats that are posture designed for comfort. A toilet made of non-absorbent vitreous china is the best bet for top sanitation and easy cleaning.

Add as many lavatories as space permits, for each additional washbowl doubles the usefulness of the bathroom. Large-size bowls and counter-top surfaces are excellent for light laundry, hair washing and for bathing babies. If there is space for lavatories, you might select one standard lavatory and a large, flat rim sink with a spray attachment.

If there are three or more persons in your household, a second bathroom or powder room is a must. For economy, the new bathing area shuld be located near existing plumbing—the main bathroom, the kitchen or laundry room—and it should be handy to living areas—near the living room for guests, the back door for a clean-up "mud room" or the basement recreation area.

Storage space can be built into almost any bathroom. Shelves can be built above the toilet, above and below the lavatory and even above the bathtub, so long as they are low enough to avoid standing in the tub. Or, you can put recessed shelves along the inside perimeter of the bathtub.

Harmony Hustlers 4-H Meets In Page Home

Linda Page gave a demonstration on "How to Make a Thread Loop" at the Harmony Hustlers 4-H club meeting April 11 at the Starr Page home.

Final plans for national 4-H Sunday were made. The club will go to church in Florence and a basket dinner will be held at noon in the Liberty Park. Games were led by Clear Carver and Emma Sanders. Refreshments were served by Jerry and Linda Page to 24 members, 10 leaders and 10 visitors.

Small Homes Are Complaint Of Families

The "outgrown" home is a common complaint among many young families these days.

A typical situation is the couple who purchased a house shortly after World War II. At that time, the family income was low, the future uncertain, and the two-bedroom dwelling at $10,000 seemed like a big undertaking.

Now — say 10 years later — there are two or three children. The family income has come along nicely. The home of 10 years ago seems very cramped. That's the story behind many families that are spending their weekends these days looking for a new home.

But is moving the ideal solution? In the 10 years, the family has become a part of the community it has helped to develop. Their friends are around them. The children are well launched in the neighborhood school.

Actually, for many families, the wise move would be to improve the existing home to provide the needed space. At least, it's a good idea to investigate all the possibilities thoroughly before deciding whether to move. Consider the market for new homes and what you may expect to realize for a home like yours.

Discuss the financing arrangements with the bank and check with an architect and contractor to see what it would cost to make the desired improvements in your present home.

In the photographs shown here is the story of how an extra room was added to a small house which had no basement. What was needed in this case was more room for relaxation — a family room.

This family had always wanted a room with a fireplace, flagstone floors, and knotty western pine walls in a natural finish as a center for family fun and informal entertaining of friends.

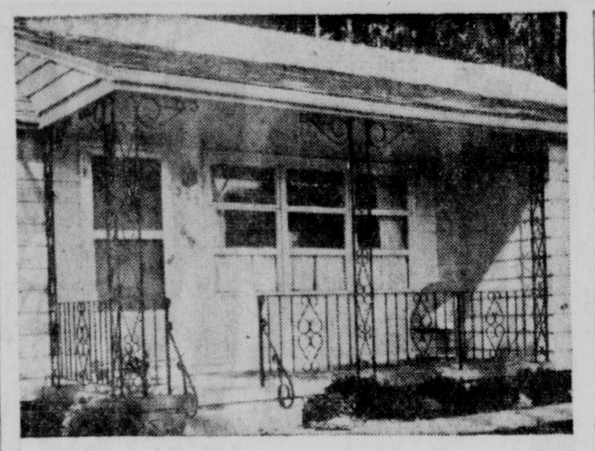

The job can be turned over to contractors or can be a partial do-it-yourself project. Pine paneling the interior is a job that is particularly well suited to the home craftsman. But whatever the method, the first thing to do in adding a room to the home is to study the floor plan and placement of the house on the property. It's advisable to make a scale drawing on graph paper to consider the room from all angles.

When a rough plan is figured out, then go to an architect for expert advice, including information about local zoning laws and the relation of the proposed addition to the rest of the house.

In this case, the extra room was added to the home adjacent to the garage. The utility room behind the garage became the connecting hallway between the new room and the main part of the house.

The new room, like the rest of the house, was built on a slab of concrete set over heating coils for radiant heating.

Extra touches that added a note of luxury and utility were bay windows, built-ins of western pine to match the paneling, and a Dutch door leading to the main part of the house.

WROUGHT IRON BEAUTIFIES a home at relatively modest cost, as exemplified here, where graceful columns and railings have been judiciously employed to enhance the appearance and value.

Enhances Appearance and Value

Modern Methods Make Use Of Wrought Iron Cheaper

Many homeowners appreciate the grace and richness of wrought iron railings and columns and recognize how much they can do to enhance the appearance and value of the home but hesitate to include them in improvement or new construction plans because of the feeling that they are too expensive.

Modern methods, however, have greatly reduced the costs involved in the fabrication of wrought iron. In fact, cost of wrought railings and columns is often less than that of masonry and wood where good design and construction practice is followed.

Good wrought iron is practically indestructible and, with a minimum of maintenance such as occasional painting at intervals dictated by climatic conditions, it will last indefinitely.

Ornamental iron work finds many uses, both inside and outside, on old and new structures.

Wrought iron railings may be used on both exterior and interior staircases and balconies, around porches, stoops, landings and platforms, "airing porches", swimming pools, etc., wherever an added touch of beauty is desired or danger of falls exists.

Wrought iron columns, like railings, are gaining increasing popularity in interior decorative and structural applications such as balcony supports, room dividers, etc.

Wallpaper Can Give Small Rooms Depth, Dimensions

Wallpaper, judiciously chosen and imaginatively used, can work decorative wonders in the home at relatively small cost.

For instance, it can expand a small room with a design so cleverly drawn as to make you seem to see into the distance. It can set apart a special area in a living-room for dining. It can keep a bathroom beautiful in spite of constant use and soap and water scrubbings. It can bring brightness and cheer to a dark, boxy room.

Here are some of the ways in which wallpaper can be made to work its wizardry.

To expand a small room, use wallpaper mural on one wall with the other three walls papered in a light solid color harmonizing with the colors in the mural.

A mural picturing an outdoor scene such as Venetian or an Oriental garden, a seascape or landscape, will give depth and dimension to a small room. In addition, a mural will completely decorate one wall and do away with the need for any wall hangings.

A homemaker on a restricted decorating budget can find scenic designs printed on rolls of regular wallpaper which will create much the same "open air look" and illusion of space as wallpaper murals.

If you have a problem wall with a jutting protrusion or a dreary beam pushing itself forward just under a ceiling, the right paper (perhaps a small geometric pattern) can give the illusion of a continuous wall.

Roof Slope Important In Material Used

In re-roofing a home, the degree of slope or pitch to the roof has an important bearing on the choice of the roofing material most suitable for the job.

The lower the pitch, the more necessary it is to guard against damage to the house by moisture, wind and rain. Water flows more slowly off a low-pitch roof, and wind is better able to get under the edges of the roofing material.

Asphalt shingles, the most widely-used roofing material for homes, can be safely applied on roofs that slope as little as two inches per foot of horizontal run.

Using a special application method developed in recent years, a double-thick felt underlay is put down. A 19-inch-wide strip of this material is laid first at the eave edge. This is covered with a 36-inch-wide strip, and succeeding strips of this width are laid over the entire roof, overlapping 19 inches each.

When the asphalt shingles are applied, the roofer places a half-dollar sized spot of quick-setting cement under each tab, and presses the shingle down firmly. This bonds the shingle to the one beneath it, and prevents wind and driving rain from getting under the protective armor of the roof.

Some asphalt shingles have a special design which locks the tabs in place, and spots of cement aren't needed. Other types of asphalt shingles have cement pre-applied at the factory.

Good Flooring Makes Pleasant Introduction

One of the first things that you notice when you enter a room is the floor. Which is one of many good reasons why you should give flooring an important place on your modernizing program.

Today there is a wide variety of attractive and long-wearing hard-surface floor covering materials on the market, most of which can be installed without professional help.

Included are asphalt, linoleum, rubber, cork, vinyl and vinyl-asbestos tiles as well as vinyl, rubber and linoleum sheets.

Before you select your flooring, consider the size, shape, lighting and use of the room you are about to re-do.

In the case of a "pattern" floor, the key motif which is repeated again and again to create the overall design should be chosen in relation to the size of the room. If yours is a small room, use only one or two colors. A "busy" design has a tendency to make a room look smaller. If a room is large, a bold design incorporating striking colors can be used successfully.

Whether your decorating theme is provincial or colorful, the design and colors you choose should be in keeping with the decor.

For living and dining areas, a one-color floor is usually the best choice. Your best bet in the kitchen and bathroom is a multi-color floor, which not only adds a cheerful note, but hides dirt and so reduces cleaning to a minimum.

Popular Work

NEW YORK (AP)—One of Broadway's likeliest prospects is "Lysistrata." At least four versions of the ancient Greek play are in various stages of development.

The popularity of "Lysistrata" with adapters came to light when Norman Bel Geddes recently disclosed he is planning a song-and-dance production.

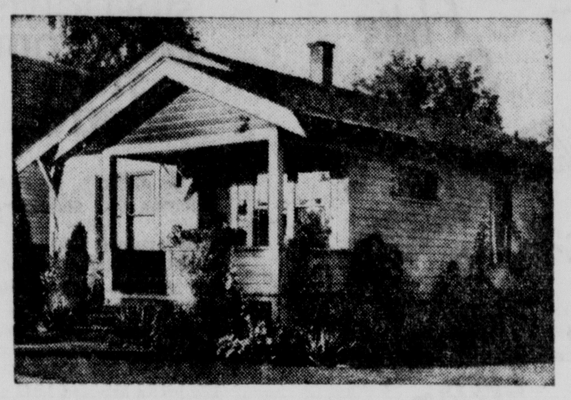

E. Y. Harburg, lyricist for the current Jamaica," then revealed he has been working on a musical comed yidea for years. Hans Holzer, an off-Broadway producer, reported he has completed his fourth draft of a similar melodic project.

Also being studied for possible transfer to Broadway is a recent non-musical London production.

Enhances Value

New House Exterior Gives Home a Different New Look

OLD LOOK: Here's how the home below looked before resurfacing with cedar shakes and shingles (available in many pre-stained colors) which are becoming increasingly popular for modernizing home exteriors.

NEW LOOK: No costly structural changes were involved in the remodeling of this home, yet its appearance has been improved tremendously. Cedar shakes were applied to the side walls, cedar shingles to the roof.

Few other home improvements can give such a lift to the family's pride of possession, and at the same time so substantially enhance the resale value of the property as new siding. At relatively small cost, the exterior of the house can be given a completely "new look" with any one of the many siding materials now available.

Most common material for resurfacing is, of course, wood. Redwood, cedar, Douglas fir and white pine come in a variety of siding types, the most popular of which is bevel or lap siding, applied horizontally with the lower edge thicker than the upper.

Drop Siding

Drop siding which has a groove cut along one edge is also applied horizontally and lapped.

Boar and batten siding (wide boards with narrow battens covering the joints) is especially adapted to vertical applications. In sheltered areas, tongue-and-groove paneling is an excellent choice.

Cedar shakes and shingles not only make an attractive exterior wall, but have an added advantage in their insulating value.

The cedar shingle single course exterior has proven popular where economy is an important factor. If a double-coursed wall is preferred, the more economical cedar single undercoursing is laid first. Directly over this are laid the grooved or striated cedar shakes. This results in a rich, deep shadow line that accents the home's horizontal lines.

Fireproof Siding

Asbestos-cement siding shingles are very hard and fireproof; colors are impregnated into the material.

Hardboard, made of heat and pressure-treated wood fibers, is available in wide panel horizontal lap siding and vertically scored siding. The latter is applied in large sheets.

Aluminum siding comes in long lengths which are applied as horizontal lap siding.

Insulating siding consists of fiber panels and shingles with facing of asphalt and mineral granules and affords a thrifty approach to resurfacing.

Plywood siding comes in large panels and in a variety of patterns.

Thin, light, masonry veneers are becoming increasingly popular for exterior resurfacing projects.

Whatever the material chosen, resurfacing adds value to a house, far beyond its cost.

Overworking Water Heater Is Costly

The average family uses its water heater more than any other appliance in the home — for dishwashing, bathing, laundry, cleaning and a total of 140 different household tasks.

Overworking the heater takes years off its life, and it adds greatly to operating costs. The efficiency of many of automatic appliances depends upon the hot water supply.

Increasing use of home laundry and automatic dish washing equipment has brought with it a need for larger size water heaters in most homes. A properly sized tank is one which is large enough to provide a margin of extra capacity to meet maximum current as well as possible future demands.

The wise homeowner plans for the future as well as today. By selecting the right size heater you can give your family the luxury of abundant hot water 24 hours a day, every day. And you can add the new labor-saving conveniences still to come without impairing the efficiency of your heater.

Water heaters range in size from 30 to 100 gallons. The size should be determined by two things: The amount of hot water you need and the recovery capacity of the heater. This is the ability of the heater to replenish hot water as fast as it is used.

With a fast recovery heater you can use a smaller tank, thus saving on purchase price, installation, maintenance and operating costs, with the added advantage that it will take up less space. Many 30-gallon gas fired water heaters will recover their entire capacity in about one hour. They give more hot water per hour than any other kind of automatic heater (even those twice as large) making them the fastest heaters.

It's Easy to Install

Wood Paneling Can Be Used To Make Old Rooms Livable

Paneling a room in wood can convert a dormant, dusty attic or basement into bright, cheerful space for living.

An important reason for the popularity of paneling is its easy installation which helps keep down labor costs if a professional does the work and at the same time makes paneling projects possible for the "do-it-yourself" amateur. For the guidance of the amateur, here are some tips from the Western Pine Association on how to panel:

Store the lumber for about 10 days in the room where it is to be used. Put sticks between each piece to allow the air to circulate.

First step in construction is to provide a nailing surface to which the paneling is to be attached. For applying horizontal paneling to an ordinary unfinished wall, such as is usually found in an unfinished attic, it may be possible to nail the boards directly onto the studs. However, most other jobs require that furring strips be provided.

Basement Installations

In a basement or for any concrete or masonry walls, furring can be installed by use of various kinds of special screw plugs or steel cut nails. It can be nailed directly to old plaster walls.

Furring strips should be horizontal in applying vertical paneling. Strips should be at least 1 x 2 inches and placed at least every four feet beginning with the top. At the bottom there should be an extra-wide furring strip — usually 1 x 8. It should be wide enough to leave a surface for the paneling to be nailed on when the baseboard — usually a 1-6 — is attached.

After the furring is in, start cutting the paneling to fit. Do not install it, but measure out where each piece will go. Make sure each board fits properly.

Then do the sanding. This is the secret to really fine paneling. Use a fine sandpaper and sand with the grain.

Now is the time to add the color to the wood if you wish — before it is nailed in place. Pre-stain everything — paneling, cabinets, baseboards, window trim and mouldings.

The pre-stained paneling is now ready to be installed. The baseboard is first. In installing vertical paneling, start at the corner. Butt each piece squarely onto the baseboard and nail it directly to the furring strips.

"Blind nailing" helps to make the best looking job. Drive the nails into the furring strip through the tongued section at the edge of each paneling board at an angle. Countersink the nails with a nail-set. When the tongue fits into the groove of the next panel being installed, the nail is hidden.

Decorative, Reduces Noise

Acoustical Ceiling Gaining Popularity With Owners

One of the most neglected areas in the average home is the ceiling. All too many ceilings are plain or drab, and some are even deteriorating, cracking, actually unsightly.

However, over the past few years, the tops of our rooms have been getting more attention from a specialized industry, and a relatively new concept in ceilings and ceiling design has been gaining popularity with home owners.

This is the acoustical ceiling which, in one installation, fulfills a double purpose: distinctive decoration and considerable noise reduction. In most cases, the installation of an acoustical ceiling will cost only slightly more than a replastering job.

The decorative value of acoustical materials can be immediately seen in the way they enhance the whole appearance of a room. The materials for home use come in 12" square tiles, and are now available in approximately 20 different designs. For example certain tiles look like veined marble or stone, others have plastic surfaces, and some will even seem to change their pattern when lighting angles in the room are altered.

In addition, if the motif of a room is changed, the acoustical tiles may be painted accordingly. In fact, if care is taken, the tiles may be painted as often as necessary.

Sprayed paint is recommended by the Acoustical Materials Association because it will go on in a thin film forming an even coat with less risk of blocking up the surface openings of the acoustical tile.

It is through these surface openings that acoustical materials accomplish noise reduction. Sound impulses, most of which, after the origination of a sound, are reflected toward the ceiling, are absorved through the acoustical tile openings. Research has brought consistent improvement to acoustical materials until now they absorb up to 85 per cent of the noise that strikes them.

Acoustical tiles can usually be installed without any alterations and with no more disruption of normal activities than is occasioned by a routine painting or remodeling job. Manufacturers usually include installation instructions with their tiles so that experienced do-it-yourselfers can install their own ceilings.

The two main methods are simple, consisting of 1) nailing or stapling and 2) cementing.

Nailing or Stapling: This is generally the easiest and best method when you are attaching acoustical materials to wood. Furring strips should be nailed across the joists at a distance corresponding to the width of the tiles. The tiles are then nailed to the strips.

Cementing: If you have a smooth strong ceiling of plaster or plaster board, cementing directly to the surface is a simple and thoroughly acceptable installation method. Small cracks won't harm the installation, provided the plaster is sound and tight to the lath.

Only the acoustical adhesive especially designated for the material should be used. Four dabs of the adhesive should be spotted near the corners and the tile should be slid rather than pressed into place.

Cementing should never be attempted by thinly coating the entire back of the tile with adhesive.

Scratcher Scratches

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Terry M. Repischak, 18, had two weeks in which to erase his initials from two benches and a wall of the 6th precinct police station. District Judge Robert Hansen told Terry to get busy with sandpaper after it was tsetified the youth scratched the initials with a key while waiting for a friend who had been arrested.

Gives Lesson On Food Preservation

Seven members of the Oak Grove Homemakers Club met at the club house April 9 for their regular meeting. A dessert luncheon was served at 1:30 p.m. by the hostesses, Mrs. E. O. Schlobohm and Mrs. W. H. Sperber.

The lesson, "What's New in Food Preservation," was given by Mrs. H. A. Wilson.

The club voted to give $10 to Mercy Hospital, which will be given to a representative of the hospital at the "Show-off Show" on May 2. Contributions of $3 were made to Heart Fund, Cancer, Red Cross, Crippled Children's Fund and Polio.

The next meeting will be May 13 at the club house with Miss Opal O'Briant as the speaker.

Danger In Tossing Trash

Even the most irresponsible person will toss a beer can or bottle from a moving automobile onto the side of a highway. Even so these articles may bounce back into the line of traffic and cause trouble, a circumstance given scant consideration.

But why is it so many motorists are insensitive, apparently, to the danger of tossing out paper cups, a half eaten sandwich, a banana peeling, cleaning tissue or newspaper pages.

The idea that these articles offer no hazards to other motorists is misconceived. It is a far cry to the horse-and-buggy days but old timers remember when wind blown paper or cans were a frequent cause of runaways. Today it is different only in the sense that wind borne litter causes automobile accidents. A driver suddenly having his vision restricted by a flying paper landing on his windshield may lose control of his vehicle with certain disastrous results. And when a heavy object hits the glass, the startling reaction of the driver may cause a wreck, too.

The April season ushers in the annual campaign of education against litter bugs with great stress upon this practice detracting from the tidiness of in-town streets and landscape along the highways and county roads. This is all very true, but the danger to life and property from the inconsiderate discarding of glass and metal objects is statistically proven each year by the State Highway Department whosse clean-up jobs have reached immense proportions.

Furthermore, it has been estimated by researchers, that from 800 to 1,000 deaths and 100,000 serious injuries are caused each year by automobiles striking objects thrown on the roads by litterbugs.

Litterbugging not only is an untidy habit it is also dangerous.

Parents who scold their children for throwing trash out of the family automobile while on a Sunday ride or cross country trip may well set a better example than forgetfully doing the same thing.

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

Exchange Binds US-Soviet Cultures

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON — Events which five years ago would have been considered unbelievable occurred in Moscow and New York this week. They illustrated the new look in American-Russian relations.

In New York, a jam-packed crowd filled the Metropolitan Opera House as 1,500 waited in the street outside to cheer the Moiseyev Ballet. Russian youngsters romped over the stage in wild, beautiful native dances, got curtain call after curtain call. The Soviet flag hung beside the stars and stripes. Tickets sold for $15 apiece, yet were unobtainable. The Opera House is sold out for a solid three weeks.

Simultaneously, in Moscow a young Texan received roaring plaudits from a Russian crowd. Thousands stormed the Concert Hall to hear Van Cliburn, son of an oil company official, play his way into the hearts of the Russian people and come off with top honors in the international Tchaikovsky piano contest.

Simultaneously in Washington, John Foster Dulles charged that Russia had "debauched" and "prostituted" diplomatic machinery for propaganda purposes. His bitter words which referred to the Bulganin-Khrushchev notes demanding a Summit Conference, sent our official relations with Russia to a new low just as our unofficial relations with Russia on the concert and dance stage reached a new high.

Mr. Dulles may be so close to his own old-fashioned type of diplomacy that he may not realize the new modern diplomacy of people-to-people friendship is winning victories in reventing war. For the crowds that cheered Van Cliburn of Kilgore, Tex., or saw him on television, or heard him praised in the Russian press, would not easily answer a call to fight the United States.

Adlai's Barren Bean

Ed Foley, former undersecretary of the treasury who put across the big $100-plate dinner for Truman, wrote a letter to Adlai Stevenson thanking him for playing second fiddle by speaking in the lower room of the Sheraton Park Hotel while Truman spoke in the main ballroom.

"You saved my scalp," wrote Foley.

Stevenson, who has more humor than he has hair, wrote back:

"I saved your scalp. Then how about giving me a piece of it. I need it more than you."

Fighting Mississippi Governor

Northerners usually associate Mississippi with cotton, colored people, the late rootin'-tootin' Senator Bilbo, and cigar-chewing Sen. Jim Eastland. What Northerners don't know is that Mississippi has developed one of the outstanding governors of the South — J. P. Coleman, now staging a vigorous battle to prevent the white citizens councils from becoming official propaganda agents of Mississippi cities and counties.

The Mississippi Legislature has been discussing plans to raise around $200,000, then turn it over to the White Citizens Councils for propaganda to combat integration. This would make the White Citizens Councils an official arm of the state of Mississippi.

Governor Coleman, battling the Legislature against the measure, warned: "We are repeating step by step the same performance that destroyed us once before."

He pointed out that the job of running the state of Mississippi must be in the hands of officials elected by the people and subject to their recall, not private groups unanswerable to the people and not required to account to the government for money spent.

What Coleman fears is that the White Citizens Councils will first become official propaganda agencies of the state, then be given law-enforcement power, so that state government is put in the hands of a few, unelected by the state.

The governor has lost the first round. The lower Mississippi Legislature has passed the White Citizens Council bill and the Senate has voted it out of committee for full debate early next week.

Recession Notes

White House economists watch the time when unemployment insurance money runs out with a worried feeling in the pit of their stomachs. . . . The veteran who has bought a house on a meager down payment can coast along for two months before there's foreclosure on his mortgage. The worker who has bought an automobile is usually getting credit extension from his auto dealer. But the time limit can't be extended forever and when the foreclosures begin to pile up on veterans' mortgages and on automobile installments, plus refrigerator, TV sets, stoves, etc., bought on the installment plan — then is when the economic advisers expect trouble. . . Most large manufacturers have ample reserves; can always carry losses back two years and carry forward five years. The bigger retailers can usually beat down the manufacturer with price cuts and discounts. The small manufacturer is caught in a price squeeze. . . The young worker is hurting. Older men with more seniority stay on the job, but he gets dropped. . . Cautious bankers are advising clients not to load up with too much inventory for fear a substantial price drop would catch them overloaded with high-priced goods. This is sound advice, but handicaps a business pickup.

OKLAHOMA CITY OKLAHOMAN: Why Junior Can't Cipher. Oklahomans wondering why Junior can't pass college mathematics should be interested in a recent survey into teaching methods at the elementary and secondary levels.

The survey was conducted during the last year by the Educational Testing Service of Princeton, N. J., under sponsorship of the Carnegie corporation.

It confirms what some Oklahoma parents probably are beginning to suspect about the teaching of mathematics in the lower grades. On the whole it concludes that the teaching of mathematics in the elementary and high schools is miserably inadequate.

Parents of students who made better than average grades in high school math are understandably at a loss when the same students can't do at least as well in college. They are even more puzzled when their children have trouble with what the colleges call the equivalent of 10th grade math. There's an apparent difference between the collegiate definition of high school math and what the high schools actually are teaching.

The survey in question throws some light on the subject. It covers 60 individual classrooms in five states, including 36 elementary classrooms and 24 high school classrooms. At both levels mathematics was the subject in which teaching methods were found most deficient.

Only 10 of the 60 teachers reached in the survey were classified as competent. Not only were the remaining 50 regarded as sadly deficient but some of them were barely able to keep ahead of their pupils.

This is a shortcoming that will have to be corrected if the country expects to produce the engineers and scientists it needs in an atomic age. If the public schools aren't capable of preparing students for college the parents at least should be warned in time to provide private tutoring for their children.

Put Best Foot Forward

Sending our best athletes to compete or exhibit in foreign lands is a kind of good will.

Carol Heiss, the U.S. skating champion, who incidentally took a tumble and a ribbing but won the title in Minneapolis, is going to Japan with Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Ludington, skating pair, to make a three-week tour on exhibition programs. Carol is an 18 year old, a freshman from Ozone Park, Queens, New York, attending New York University. Carol still aims for the 1960 Olympics, but thinks she might then retire from competitive skating.

Another winner, Althea Gibson, the world's top ranking woman tennis player, has just won the Caribbean championship in Kingston, Jamaica.

The Russians will have a look and a chance to compete with the national AAU basketball champions from Peoria, Illinois. These boys are mighty fast on their feet and hitting the basket, so the Russians will be pitted against the best.

Whether our athletes win or lose, they are said to be the kind to send to other countries as representatives.

Ike Nudges Auto Makers To Reduce Their Prices

By Esther Van Wagoner Tufty
Of Our Washington Bureau

WASHINGTON — At his press conference, President Eisenhower gave a nudge to automobile manufacturers to reduce prices, although he did not single out the motor industry by name.

This is exactly what he said: "Let's be selective in our buying; let's take things we need. Look here, once America just buys the things it wants, our people, our manufacturers will be busy making those things. I personally think our people are being just a little bit disenchanted by a few items that have been chucked down their throats, and they are getting tired of them, and I think it would be a very good thing when the manufacturers wake up — and I am not going to name names — and begin to give the things we want instead of the things they think we want. Now that is what I think."

Reporters assumed he was referring specially to fancy automobiles.

This is in line with testimony of Bernard M. Baruch before the Senate Finance Committee. He maintained that price reductions could provide the "best stimulant to our economy." Baruch fears inflation more than recession.

The automobile makers and dealers are probably "picked on" because they could most dramatically set the example, and because the price of cars has become "suspiciously high," according to some officials. Victor R. Hansen, Assistant Attorney General, said on April 2nd that federal grand juries elsewhere might follow the lead of a Washington, D. C. jury in looking into alleged illegal price-fixing among dealers.

On April 29th, the Kefauver Anti-Trust and Monopoly Subcommittee is scheduled to resume hearings on auto prices.

Already labor leader Walter Reuther of UAW has proposed price cuts connected with wage considerations. He said a cut of some $100 below 1957 levels would make "an effective beginning in stopping and reversing the inflationary trend."

A visiting economist from West Germany, Ludwig Erhard, sees a "buyers' strike" in automobiles. The President, at the same press conference, said his friend Erhard told him that Germany worries more about inflation than recession.

Many Americans agree with Minister Erhard that the public is sick and tired of buying bigger cars with more chromium, gadgets, or high styling. (Only American Motors, with its small Rambler) is producing more cars in the first 3 months of 1958 than in the same period of 1957.

The little woman is blamed for demanding more "trimmings," but she wants her man to have a job, and it's estimated that one of every seven Americans works at a job tied in with motor transportation.

Actor's Strange Life

NEW YORK (AP)—A drama based on one actor's strange life is being prepared for production off-Broadway next fall.

Entitled "I Got Shoes," the play tells the story of Conrad Cantzen, who died in 1945 after playing small roles for 50 years. His earnings never exceeded $55 a week, but by living as a pauper, Cantzen was able to leave a fund of almost a quarter million dollars, dedicated to buying shoes for needy performers.

The Saint Bernard

Along the street he saunters,
For he's much too big to run,
And mournfully he glances up
To look at every one,
For Gus, the Saint Bernard,
Who likes to roam the town,
Is ready to make friends
With anyone aroun';
He stops to be petted,
Even children aren't afraid,
It really is surprising
At the friends this dog has made;
Of course, now and then,
You can notice someone shy
Away from Gus, he pays no heed
But simply goes on by.
Teenagers once blocked the street
And while one stroked his back
Another fed him popcorn
While another held the sack;
You'll find him on the sidewalk
Unmindful of the crowd,
He sleeps right on undisturbed
By noises close and loud;
You'll find him lying in the bank
Stretched out there on the floor
And everybody smiles a bit
As they come in the door;
Sure, everybody knows him,
'Cause old Gus is every place
This huge mountain of a dog
With such a sorrowful face,
But Gus is just his nickname,
It's easier, you see.
He has a mile long name because
He has a pedigree —
But Gus has no worries
About his distinguished breed,
It doesn't mean a thing to him
That he is pedigreed,
He only wants to wander
About — or sleep — or eat —
And to hear the friendly greetings
Of the people on the street.

HIGHLIGHTS AND SIDELIGHTS FROM YOUR STATE CAPITOL

Patrol Arrested 4,591 Speeders in 1957

The Missouri highway patrol arrested some 4,591 speeders in the last six months of 1957—a period which saw the first enforcement of the state's new speed law.

The patrol arrested 3,949 persons for excessive speed and 642 for speeding while drinking. The patrol's charges stood up in 3,877 of the cases with 396 still pending.

Of 3,600 speeding cases, 3,261 were fined, 50 were jailed and seven placed on probation. In 595 cases of speeding while drinking, 500 were fined and 57 were jailed. Two were placed on probation.

The number of arrests apparently served as a good warning to many. Although the new speed law only went into effect on September, 1957, the 1957 traffic fatality total was 136 lower than in 1956. Already in the first three months of 1958, the number of traffic deaths is 43 lower than in the corresponding period of 1957.

Troop A at Lee's Summit was the leader in speeding arrests in the last half of 1957 with 928 arrests. Troop C at Kirkwood turned in the second largest string of speeders with 915 arrests. Other troop speeding arrest records were: Troop B, Macon, 367; Troop D, Springfield, 467; Troop E, Poplar Bluff, 669; Troop F, Jefferson City, 207; Troop G, Willow Springs, 151; Troop H, St. Joseph, 492; and Troop I, Rolla, 395.

A report of the patrol's activities for the final half of 1957 showed 26,516 arrests for various reasons. Of that number, 24,539 cases were cleared with penalties, giving the patrol a batting average of .925.

State Tax Take Rising Despite Recession

Milton Carpenter, state director of revenue, believes that despite the so-called recession, Missouri will collect at least five million dollars more in sales and income taxes this year.

Although income tax figures won't be final for several weeks, Carpenter said he believed the total would hit $40,000,000. The total income tax collections last year were $37,500,000.

The revenue director said it is evident that more persons are filing state income tax returns this year although amounts being paid are smaller. Any effect by the recession would be offset by the increased number of filings, Carpenter predicted.

The revenue department has started stricter enforcement of the income tax through checking wage returns of employes with income tax returns. Those who have been employed in Missouri, but who haven't filed a tax return, are given an opportunity to pay up or face court action.

"Our only weakness," Carpenter said, "is the people we can't reach by mail." This includes 50-60,000 transients who work for a while in Missouri and then move away before income tax time. Carpenter estimated that several million dollars more might be collected if transients could be forced to pay income taxes.

Increased enforcement is also paying off in the sales tax field. Carpenter estimates that $2 million to $2.5 million more will be collected in sales taxes this year. Some of this increase might be due to higher prices but the revenue director thinks it is because of better enforcement. Collection districts have been made smaller and sales tax agents have more of a chance to audit the books of business firms to make sure they are paying the right amounts.

In one case, Carpenter said his agents turned up a businessman who had paid no sales tax for 20 years. Given a choice of paying up or facing prosecution for fraud, the man paid $14,000.

Carpenter said the increased auditing had turned up a number of cases in which businesses weren't paying correct amount of sales tax to the state. But he admitted that in a few cases, his agents had found that businessmen had paid too much and were entitled to refunds.

State Liquor Laws Hard on Violators

If a liquor storekeeper or bartender suggests that a little whiskey is good for your cold, he could get in trouble with the state liquor control department.

One of the rules of the state agency which regulates the sale of liquor is that licensees are prohibited from advertising that "spirituous liquors" are "beneficial and healthful."

That's just one of the some 20 rules and 150 sections of law dealing with intoxicating and non-intoxicating beverages in Missouri. These give Missouri some of the most stringent liquor statutes in the nation.

Maybe that waitress in the neighborhood tavern is a personal friend. But it wouldn't be wise to buy her a drink or to dance with her. It's against a state liquor regulation to give or sell drinks to any female employe of a tavern or night club with a liquor or beer license. Patrons aren't supposed to sit or dance with female employes either.

These laws have had the effect of eliminating the "B-Girl" problem in Missouri. "B-Girls" work for taverns on a percentage basis—receiving from the tavern owner a percentage of the price of the drinks they have induced customers to purchase for them. Regulation No. 14 specifically forbids a female to "solicit the purchase of intoxicating liquor." So beware of that lady who suggests that you buy her a quick one, you might be getting the lady into trouble with liquor control agents.

And if the bartender brings you a shot of "Old Scotch" instead of the "Jim Bum" you ordered, he can be in for trouble also. Regulation 13 prohibits substituting another brand for what you ordered.

The liquor control department has 36 agents, four special agents and six district supervisors who roam the state with an eye out for violations. Licensees who violate the regulations are subject to revocation or suspension of their license.

Ruth Millett Says

Smart Women Play a Game: 'Great, Big Wonderful Man'

Smart women don't argue with men or contradict them. When a man makes a statement expresses a conviction, or gives his solution to a problem, a smart woman quickly agrees.

Then if she thinks he is wrong, she starts feeding him her ideas, so tactfully packaged that he can accept them, enlarge upon them and actually believe they are his own.

This isn't news. Smart women have always known it. But it's a little frightening how many women today are rebelling against the idea.

They don't want to win an argument or a man in any such roundabout feminine way. They think it's beneath their dignity.

They figure they have the right to look a man straight in the eye and say, "You're wrong and I can prove it."

They have the right, but they are dead wrong if they make a habit of exercising it.

A woman convinces a man that she knows more than he does at her own risk.

Every time a woman proves a man wrong she becomes less feminine, less charming, and less lovable in his eyes.

No matter how many rights they claim for themselves, women aren't going to be able to change the nature of man.

And the nature of man demands that he appear superior before women. Letting him feel superior is a little game women have been playing since the beginning of time.

Only some of them are getting tired of the game and think it's high time women quit playing up to men. What they aren't smart enough to figure out is that they can quit, all right, but if they don't play up to a man and make him feel proudly superior, there's always some other woman who will.

There will always be feminine women who will actually enjoy the little game known as "You great, big, wonderful man."

When Alexander the Great died in 323 B.C., his generals divided his empire among themselves. One, a Macedonian named Ptolemy, became satrap or governor of Egypt. About 306 B.C., when all the generals took the title of king, he became king of Egypt. Ptolemy won the respect of the Egyptians by developing commerce and by creating a center of art and culture.

In Five Years

Predicts Lagging Interest In Future Weather Report

Americans will be so used to a custom-made climate in another five years that they will have little interest in weather reports, if we may judge by the rate at which air-conditioning systems of various types are being installed in both new and existing homes.

Basically there are four different ways in which air conditioning can be installed in older homes:

(1) Central air-conditioning; (2) Units that become parts of existing warm-air heating systems; (3) Units that become parts of hot water heating systems; (4) Individual room air conditioners.

A central air-conditioning system consists of a basic unit, containing a compressor, condenser, cooling coil, air filter and blower along with a duct system to rooms and room registers.

In homes where forced warm air heating systems already exist, air-conditioning can be added at relatively low cost, since the same furnace, blowers, duct work and registers are used for both heating and cooling.

A year-round air-conditioning system takes over the job of indoor climate control, for both summer and winter. In the summer the system conditions and cools the air and in winter keeps the house warm.

"Nerve Center of the System

Just as forced air ducts can carry either warm or cool air, hot water pipes can carry chilled water to specially equipped radiator units for cooling purposes during the summer.

A chilled water cooling system may readily be added to the hot-water heating plant of the existing dwelling. The present boiler is retained. The supply and return pipes can also be used if they are accessible for insulation. Dual-purpose room units replace the existing radiators or convectors.

Room air-conditioners can be installed in rooms where most needed. Depending on the size and layout of the home, two, or three or possibly four room air-conditioners can be strategically located where each will be able to cool a pre-determined zone.

Finishing Basement, Attic, Economic Way To Add Space

as a guest room. Indeed, sometimes a converted basement or attic fills more than one of these needs.

Often the home-owner, if reasonably handy with tools, can do much of the work himself, thus reducing the over-all cost of the project considerably.

There are four main kinds of wood paneling from which the home-owner may choose the one most suitable to his purpose and pocketbook: softwod boards, hard- and sftwood plywd.

One of the most popular materials for doing the job is knotty western pine paneling. The warmth and natural beauty of this paneling, its wide availability, and the range of effects it makes possible, make it ideal for the project. It can add a luxurious look to a room that will serve as a center for adult entertaining or a bedroom. At the same time, it will stand abuse as an active playroom for adults or children.

Knotty pine is easily worked with hand or power tools and readily accepts any kind of finish. It is suitable for use by either the professional craftsman or the do-it-yourself homeowner.

With proper waterproofing and with the use of dehumidifying equipment, if necessary, moisture in the basement need be no problem. The wood itself should be treated with modern commercial sealers.

Many families who bought their homes without a fireplace because they wanted to keep costs down can take the opportunity to add this feature as part of the basement finishing job.

In working out plans for finishing a basement or attic, it is best to Finishing a basement or attic is one of the easiest and most economical ways to add useful space to the home. It can provide a family room that is becoming so popular these days, a game room, a children's playroom, a den, or even an extra bedroom for a family member or for use consult with the lumber dealer and other experts. They can save the home-owner money, time and effort through their understanding and know-how.

Save Money In Plumbing

Knowing what to do in a plumbing emergency can save home-owners unnecessary expense, according to the National Association of Plumbing Contractors.

The three most common plumbing emergencies faced by home-owners are (1) leaky faucets, (2) leaking pipes and (3) stopped up water closets, sinks and drains.

The most economical way of solving the "leaky faucet" emergency is to ask your local plumbing contractor to replace all the washers in your home at the same time. Such "preventive maintenance" is very inexpensive and saves repeat calls—especially if a worn valve-seat rather than the washer is causing the trouble.

To keep a little drip from becoming a big problem — late at night when you are trying to sleep —here is a simple first-aid measure that will at least stop the noise. Fasten a strip of cloth to the end of the faucet with a rubber band so that the water runs down the cloth to the sink instead of splashing.

Leaking pipes, especially those hidden in walls and floors, can do serious damage if not detected early. A damp spot on the wall or ceiling should always be investigated. If it results from a leaking pipe, it may spread and cause damage to plaster and wall paper.

When a leak is discovered, the homeowner can prevent further damage by closing the main water cut-off valve and draining the supply lines by opening the lowest faucet in the system. The "lowest faucet" may be the garden-hose connection outside or the laundry—try faucet in the basement.

Knowing how to close the main gas and water cut-off valves can prevent serious damage during an emergency. Your local plumbing contractor can show you where the cut-off valves are located and how to operate them.

Stopped-up drains and water closets often can be quickly cleared with a plunger — commonly known as a "plumber's friend." If the plunger doesn't do the job, it's best to call a plumbing contractor.

Slides Shown By Mr. Mendenhall

The Otterville PTA met at the school April 8. Devotional was given by Mr. Mendenhall, who also showed slides of the Judgment, Crucifixion and Resurrection.

The program for the evening consisted of several musical presentations by Carolyn Leaton, Linda and Barbara Retherford, Danny Gant, Susette Burnett, Sandy Glenn, Jeannie Thomas and Bobbie Holman and a reading given by the first grade.

Two Application Methods

Wainscot Is a Satisfactory Protection for Lower Wall

A wainscot is the modern and most satisfactory way of protecting a vulnerable lower wall area, or covering up cracked plaster or similar damage already done.

Generally, in existing construction, there are two methods of applying wainscots. Over walls which are uneven, furring strips are recommended. There should be sufficient strips or headers so that all edges of each panel will bear on a continuous support.

If the hardboard is to be fastened to a solid backing, the latter should be straight, firmly attached and dry. If an adhesive is to be used on an old surface, remove any wallpaper or loose paint. Scratch the painted surface to provide a strong bond between the adhesive and the backing.

Spacing of the furring strips depends on the thickness of the panels. On open framing, the studs or furring strips may be spaced up to 16 inches on center with panels 3/16" thinck and up to 24 inches with 5/16" material. With solid backing having little nail holding power, the framing members for ⅛" material may be spaced up to 12 inches on center, for 3/16" panels up to 16 inches and for ¼" up to 24 inches.

When the panels are applied directly to the framework, begin at the center and drive 1¼" nails perpindicular to the surface at points approximately 8 inches apart at intermediate supports and 4 inches apart around all edges. Use finishing nails which will penetrate into the nailing base at least one inch. To conceal nail heads, countersink.

If using an adhesive (linoleum cement, tileboard cement or a hardboard adhesive), spread it with a saw-tooth trowel having 3/16" triangular notches over the entire back side.

FIRST STEP in adding a wainscot is the proper preparation of the wall. Here, with the aid of a chisel and crowbar, the base molding is being removed.

SECOND STEP is the installation of furring strips. They are placed at the floor plate, top of wainscot and horizontally between on 12-inch centers.

THIRD STEP is nailing the panels shown here; Masonite Leatherwood) to the furring strips. Finishing nails 1¼" long are spaced at 4-inch intervals.

FOURTH STEP is placing a chair rail molding into position. This serves to frame the wainscot and furnish protection against chairs backed into the wall.

Carry Load Of Added Appliances

Home-Owners Find Electric Systems Are Now Obsolete

The average American home is using four times the amount of electricity it did 25 years ago and three times as much as it did 14 years ago. Yet eight out of 10 homes in America were wired long before this greatly increased demand occurred.

The home electric system that was originally designed for operating a dozen 60 watt bulbs, is now being called upon to provide electric power for a multiplicity of appliances, some of which, alone, may well take the entire load of incoming electric power. In addition to old wiring problems many owners of relatively new homes are discovering that their electric systems are almost as obsolete as those in antiquated houses.

To undertand what has happened to the average electric system, it is necessary to know a little bit about how it works. Home wiring systems are in two parts. The first is the service entrance which brings electricity from company power lines to your house. The second distributes that electric power throughout your home.

The service entrance consists of the wires coming from the power lines to your house, the meter, the switch and fuse box. The amount of electricity which can be brought into your home at any one time is determined by the capacity of the service entrance wires and equipment.

The second part of your electric system which distributes electricity from the service entrance throughout your home is composed of branch circuits and outlets.

The number of branch circuits and the size of the wires in the circuits determine how efficiently electricity can operate your lights and appliances. If your system doesn't have enough branch circuits of proper size wires to accommodate all of your electrical equipment it becomes overloaded.

Your electric system works on the same principal as your water system. Pressure induces flow in both instances. Small wires restrict the flow of electricity just as small pipes restrict the flow of water. The size of your wiring is therefore important to the efficiency of your system. In addition, many modern appliances need so much "house power" that they should be on separate circuits of their own.

Amperes and volts are indicated on the label of your main switch box and by multiplying them you will have the amount of wattage in your electric system.

It is a simple matter to get a "house power" rating that will show you if your wiring is adequate. Most electrical contractors will check your system and give you a free estimate if rewiring is needed.

Plants Make Driveways Attractive

Many driveways could be made much more delightful by the simple expedient of a few perennials or shrubs as a border. Visitors get their first impression of a home as they come up the driveway, whether a long drive or a short one, and as for the home owner himself, it puts him in a good humor after a day's work to see the borders of his drive in full bloom.

There are two solutions in achieving the effect desired.

The first is to make two long narrow beds and plant permanent shrubs, both evergreen and flowering. Roses make a splendid border for a drive as do numerous other flowering shrubs, such as azaleas, spirea, forsythia, or anyone of probably a hundred or more shrubs that do well in your neighborhood climate. Consult with your nurseryman and try to obtain a succession of bloom so that one plant or another will be in bloom at practically all time from spring through summer. By using low-growing coniferous evergreens intermingled with flowering shrubs, the borders will be attractive in winter as well.

Another solution to making the drive more attractive is to plant the beds with perennials. Thus you can have the early-flowering perennials followed by those that flower in the summer, such as delphiniums and phlox, followed by the ever-popular fall chrysanthemums. Other perennials can be mingled with them, such as daylilies, to give pleasing effect, while evergreens can supply winter color.

Many home drives can be made far more attractive at very small cost. And it pays off as the lovely plants put both visiting friends and family in a happier frame of mind as they enter the drive.

It is said the "teddy bear" was modeled after a grizzly bear cub shown in a cartoon with Theodore Roosevelt in 1902, and was named for that famous conservationist with his consent.
